GREEN HOLDING DOOR OPEN FOR PEACE MOVE

Teamsters' Head Threatens to Lead Union Out of Organized Fold

DUSTON, Tex., Oct. 10 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor, designed to make no peace terms with dictatorship or communist regime, was aroused by a heated speech today, as Daniel J. Tobin attempted to lead the teamsters'
out of organized labor's fold.
Tobin demanded that a resolution be passed assailing John L.
Lewis, who he said had been sent back to the A. F. of Labor Council. The president of the International Teamsters' union shouted that if the convention did not take definite steps to lead the labor movement "we will build our own home—the labor union."

Report Adopted; One Dissenter
The resolutions committee report adopted with only one dissenter after Tobin had withdrawn his motion to the federation's "open policy for labor peace. The teamsters' union head and his delegates voted for the committee after William Green assured the federation remained ready to meet the C. I. O. and "let bygones be bygones."

The resolution committee would be launching an attack on the C. I. O.
The leadership by recommending the council "carry on the battle and stand ready to respond to genuine appeal for peace." Tobin said: "That's what we did last year and the year before and what we will do next year unless the members of our national and international unions increase their efforts."

Green's Retort Cheered President William Green rose and said:

"We could have had peace at Atlanta three years ago if you delegates wanted."
The delegates cheered.

Personally, I am willing to do all within my power to reunite
the labor movement. We have consistently sought to establish solidarity between nations and among ourselves in the labor movement.
It is to be peace at any price
in the labor movement," he shouted.
He didn't you surrender three years ago and give them what they wanted?"

Lewis Lashed For Tactics
After today Lewis was accused of resolution committee of being a dictator of the CIO.
The motion assailed Lewis for Wagner Labor Act and vigorously opposed the renomination of Wood Wakefield Smith to the national labor relations board.

The action came late in the convention that had heard President Lewis's plea for labor peace and unity and the statement of William Green of the A.
F. of L. that "the door is open to peace."

Well Leads Fight on Lewis
Matthew Well, chairman of the national committee, led the fight against Lewis as he read a formal resolution that blamed the CIO boss for most of the troubles on the front. The report ended with invitation to the CIO rank and file and all unorganized workers to

Twenty Killed in Crash of Airliner

Germany, Oct. 10 (AP)— Twenty persons were killed today when a Belgian airliner lost a wing and plummeted to earth near this Ruhr Valley community in Northwestern Germany.

The victims were 16 German passengers, including two women and children, and four Belgian crew members.
The bodies, said by an official, were scattered over a wide area. The crash occurred through fog and rain on its Brussels-Essen-Berlin run.
The pilot, Joseph Van Den Eynde, who was personal pilot for the Queen Astrid of Belgium, had over 62,000 miles during the 13 years in the service of the Belgian airline which operates the plane.

Jobless Father Takes Twin Daughters To New York When Childless Pair Asks For Them

Marble Hall, Pa., Oct. 10 (AP)— Jobless Joseph Mulcrone took his motherless 12-year-old twin daughters to New York City today to find foster parents who can fulfill their artistic ambitions.
expectation of meeting at least a dozen persons who he says, are willing to adopt the twins, Patricia,
a brunette, and Helene, a blonde, above.

One offer was reported from a wealthy New York business man and his wife who have been married 19 years and are childless; another from a New York widow. However, Mulcrone would not discuss the proposals publicly.
The twins are the youngest of six Mulcrone children. Their mother died several years ago.

Daring $427,000 Robbery Is Solved After Four Years

Brooklyn Police Soon To Make Arrests In Armored Car Case

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—The World-Telegram says District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn has information which will solve the daring $427,000 hold-up of an armored car in 1934 as well as two slayings heretofore not known to be connected with the robbery.

The newspaper says that authorities, after four years of intensive investigation now, for the first time,
have a true picture of the crime,
the events leading up to and following it, together with the identities of all the characters and the roles they played.

The first of the slayings—a technical homicide arising out of an alleged surgical operation—was said to be that of Bennie MacMahon,
a member of the stick-up gang whose nude body was found stuffed in a trunk four days after the hold-up.

The other death, the paper says,
was that of John (Fats) Manning, MacMahon's buddy, also a participant in the hold-up. Manning was shot to death July 9, 1936 in upper Manhattan. Police were said to have learned that Manning would be avenged MacMahon's death and they expect to link his shooting to the man allegedly responsible for the MacMahon slaying.

Early Suspects Released
The armored car hold-up, largest cash robbery in New York police history, occurred at the Rubel exhibit plant in Bath Beach, Brooklyn, Aug.
21, 1934. Heretofore police had doubted the crime would ever be solved, officially, although a number of criminals known by police to have participated have been taken into custody and later released when witnesses failed to identify them.

The paper says it learned Geoghan is ready to order the arrest of five persons, who with nine others either in jail or dead, are implicated in the hold-up and the two-slayings related to it.
The five are expected to be taken into custody soon.

Rabbit's Cornea Gives Blurred Sight To Long Blinded Hagerstown Workman

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)— Six months of blindness gave way to blurred sight through a rabbit's cornea today for Frank L. Hoffman when physicians removed temporarily his bandages.
Dr. Paul N. Fleming who transplanted the whole cornea from a laboratory tested rabbit to Hoffman's right eye said the 61-year old laborer "could see objects passed before his eyes but could not distinguish the outlines."
"I am greatly pleased with his progress," said the surgeon. "There has not been enough time for regeneration but we will know definitely within the next week how successful the operation has been."
Transplantation of animal cornea to a human is not new, an eye surgeon at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore said. Previous attempts restored sight for a short time in many instances but the animal cornea "invariably" became opaque, he said, and blindness returned after several weeks.
The 15 minute surgery was performed by Dr. Fleming on September 27 at the request of Hoffman who was completely blinded in both eyes by lye and carbolic acid from a spraying machine while cleaning a stable last May.

Nice Strikes Back At Foe On Illegal Vote Registration

Governor Says O'Connor Would Ignore Bold Attempt at Padding List

Chides Attorney General for Using "Intemperate Language"

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—Child-ing his Democratic opponent for the governorship for using "intemperate language," Governor Harry W. Nice pleaded tonight for a "pleasant campaign."

The speech in the assembly followed a tour through most of Anne Arundel county in which the motor-cade of twenty automobiles stopped at cross roads towns and wherever a dozen persons of voting age could be assembled. Gov. Nice made short speeches and the other Republican candidates shook hands.
Mrs. Frankie Wilson, candidate for the House of Delegates handed out striped Christmas candy.

Fears O'Connor Lost His Head
Gov. Nice failed to mention his opponent, Attorney General Herbert
R. O'Connor, by name but said:
"I read with interest the statements made by my esteemed opponent on Saturday, in Calvert county.
Like the late King of France, I greatly fear that he has lost his head and permitted anger to usurp accuracy. 'Tis a pity, like David,
I mourn for my son Absolon."
"In the first place, he has permitted his anger to force him into the use of intemperate language, and I am a bit afraid that the good citizens of Maryland are resentful of the calling of names and indulging in that form of campaigning.
And, yet, I cannot find it in my heart to chide him, because, after all, his nomination cost him or his supporters a great deal of money—more than sixty-nine thousand dollars."

Wants Clean Campaign
The campaign, Gov. Nice said, must be kept "on a high plane."
We must not descend to personalities. I must sell my goods upon their own merits, I must try to find demerits in the goods of my opponent. If we both proceed on that theory, we will have a very pleasant campaign."

Asserting he entered the governor's office faced with a deficit of over three millions, Gov. Nice said "when my first term will have ended, that deficit will have been turned into a surplus of two and a quarter million dollars."

Says Foe Welcomes "Padding"
Gov. Nice assailed O'Connor's speech on North Beach registrations by Washington residents as Maryland voters. The address "placed him in the unenviable position of apparently, as chief law officer of the state," Nice said, "ignoring a brazenly bold attempt to pad the registration lists. We should know that a Washingtonian temporarily domiciled for two months in Maryland, commuting daily to Washington, where he has his place of business, where his children attend school and where he has, under oath, declared his residence to be in Washington when obtaining his automobile tags, is not a resident of the state of Maryland."

Holds O'Connor In Error
Nice said that O'Connor's figures on the change in the state's finances during the past four years were inaccurate. He said O'Connor claimed the debt had increased $20,000,000, whereas the actual increase was only $6,000,000 because $14,000,000 in state bonds were retired.

He also said that the Democratic legislature had voted the bond issues and that O'Connor "proposed, prepared and piloted through the legislature" one bond issue.

Court Withholds Order
Brune asked the court to have O'Connor appear and show cause why the relief requested should not be granted. Judge Eli Frank, however, said he would not sign an order until O'Connor returns from a campaign tour of Southern Maryland, and has been notified of the action so that he could take steps to defend himself.

Brune dropped out of the Democratic gubernatorial campaign for nomination and decided to run as an independent. He had campaigned on an "anti-machine politics" platform.

Nice Opposed to Affront to Jews
Annapolis, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—Governor Harry W. Nice telegraphed tonight to Secretary of State Hull
a request that the federal government "use its good offices" in aiding Jewish immigration to Palestine.

"As governor of Maryland," the telegram stated, "I wish to express my great alarm at the report that the British government is planning to repudiate the league of nations mandate and the Balfour declaration relating to the Jewish national home in Palestine. To stop Jewish immigration to Palestine at this time would be a great calamity in view of the terrible plight of Jewish refugees."

Johnson Urges Cleanup As Fire Preventative

Takoma Park, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)— A gigantic cleanup in an effort to stop fires was urged today by Irving
W. Johnson, chairman of the State Fireman's Association, in announcing fire prevention week.
Volunteer firemen from scores of Maryland towns are aiding in advising residents how to prevent fires and eliminate fire hazards. In some towns the volunteers made inspections of buildings and made suggestions for prevention.

Lady Astor Denies Lindbergh Scorned Soviet Air Force

American-Born Peeress Says Charges Made in Moscow Are "Lie"

Says He Has Not Dined At Her Home Since Return
From Russian Visit

London, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Daily
Herald, labor paper, today quoted American-born Lady Astor as declaring a "complete lie" the report
Col. Charles A. Lindbergh pronounced the Soviet air force inefficient during a visit at her home.

"Col. Lindbergh has not dined with us since he returned from Russia and in fact I have never given a dinner party for him," the newspaper quoted her.

"It is a complete lie, too, that Col.
Lindbergh has ever made any sort of pronouncement about the Russian air force or about anything else
during a dinner party at my house or in my house at all."

Accused in Moscow
Col. Lindbergh was denounced by eleven Soviet airmen in a letter published in Moscow today. They asserted he was a guest in Lady Astor's home when he made statements derogatory of Soviet aviation and may have encouraged influential conservative circles to urge Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to go ahead with his agreement to permit Adolf Hitler to dismember Czechoslovakia.

11 Soviet Aviators Denounce Lindbergh
Moscow, Oct. 10 (AP)—Eleven Soviet aviation leaders denounced Col.
Charles A. Lindbergh today in a letter which referred to alleged statements by the American flier published in London after he visited Moscow in August.

Col. Lindbergh declined comment when he arrived late today in Rotterdam with Mrs. Lindbergh, enroute from France to Berlin for the annual session of the Lillenthal Society for Aerial Research.

(Neither in Moscow, where the couple visited Aug. 17-26, nor subsequently has there been any public statement by Col. Lindbergh on his Russian trip or any other subject.)
The statements attributed to him in the Soviet airmen's letter were of the same tenor as an article in the Oct. 5 issue of "The Week," leftist publication published in London.
(Ellen Wilkinson, labor member of parliament, last Thursday called parliament's attention to the story in "The Week.")

Slandorous and Insolent
The letter, published in Pravda, organ of the central committee of the Communist party, and circulated by Tass (Russian official news agency), accused Col. Lindbergh of

Frederick Forbids Gambling at Fair

Frederick, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—Frederick streets were quiet tonight and peaceful burghers remained home but at the fair grounds there was pandemonium as side shows came into existence behind tents and educational exhibits were prepared.
The fair opens tomorrow morning.
There will be harness racing but gambling and "skin" shows are definitely forbidden.

The board of managers decided,
after the grand jury ordered a cleanup in gambling throughout the county, there would be no gambling devices at the fair. For good measure and to help keep the fair on a high moral plane they also forbade side shows specializing in beautiful women or modern versions of little Egypt's dances.

In addition to daily horse racing there will be vaudeville acts and fireworks on Wednesday and Thursday.
Exhibitors in the household departments of the fair will be permitted this year to make three entries per ticket where in former years the admission ticket permitted only two entries.

Youth Meets Death When Car Overturns

Hagerstown, Oct. 10 (AP)—Marvin Stumbaugh, aged 18 years, was instantly killed this evening when his car overturned several times on the Middleburg pike, near here.
Others in the car were Elmer R.
Smith, 17, and Lewis P. Turner, 19, both of this city who received minor fractures and bruises.
Stumbaugh's head was smashed and he was dead when taken from the wrecked car.
Coroner C. Edward Heard will hold an inquest later in the week.

Hitler Would Reduce Czech To Status Of Vassal Of Nazi State

Czechoslovakia and Hungary At Breaking Point Over New Claims

By LOUIS A. MATZOLD
KOMAROM, Czechoslovakia, Oct.
10 (AP)—Negotiations between Czechoslovakia and Hungary were reported at the breaking point tonight because delegates of the Prague government considered Hungarian demands "outrageous."

The Czechoslovaks offered about 20 per cent of the territory demanded and suggested discussions of other demands be continued in another conference within two months.

It was understood the Hungarian "minimum claims" include some territory in Carpatho-Russia, extreme eastern portion of Czechoslovakia, which would give Hungary free access to the Polish border on the north.

While Czechoslovak and Hungarian delegations met today, the streets of all Komarom were lined with bristling Czechoslovak police and gendarmes and army detachments apparently ready to prevent the population from repeating pro-Hungarian demonstrations such as were staged yesterday.

Vandenberg Urges Election of Free House and Senate
GOP Leader Charges Congress Has Given President Too Much Power

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 10 (AP)— Republican leader Arthur Vandenberg contended tonight that congress has given the President something
"close to totalitarian power—as it is known in Europe."

The Michigan senator made this charge in an address prepared for delivery to a Republican rally here and, by radio (NBC), to the nation. The address was the first of four scheduled for delivery by Vandenberg in the 1938 congressional campaign.

Calling for the election this year of a senate and house which "speak independently for themselves and the American people," Vandenberg warned the voters against a drift toward centralized power.

Sees Peril to Freedom
"We have no divine immunity to the seeping, sweeping forces of authority that elsewhere have freedom by the throat," he said. "On the contrary, we too have felt both the promise and the pressure of the iron heel."

"Mr. Secretary Wallace says we are headed for what? For frontiers quite different from any we have ever known? The President himself asserts that he has created instrumentalities of power which,
in wrong hands, would do what?
'Shackle the liberties of the people.'
The Supreme Court has said
'every journey to a forbidden land begins with the first step'."

"We have taken that first sinister step x x x A supine, rubber-stamping, mimeographing congress has taken it by lodging more individual, personal power in the President than was ever before exercised in America by one man."

Condemns "Court Packing" Vandenberg condemned what he said was the attempt to "pack the Supreme Court of the United States with responsible pawns," to enact the government reorganization bill

British Communist Writer Is Denied Entry Into United States

New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—Evelyn John St. Lee Strachey, British writer on communism and one-time object of a deportation proceeding in this country, was barred from entry in the United States tonight by immigration officials.
They ordered him held aboard the Normandie overnight and instructed the French Line to deliver him tomorrow morning to Ellis Island for appearance before a special board of inquiry.
The hearing will determine whether he shall be allowed a temporary permit to enter.
The immigration officers said Strachey "was in possession of a passport but did not have a valid passport visa."
"The visa which accompanied the passport has been revoked and canceled by the consul general at London, England, by order of the department of state and the authorities at Ellis Island were so notified," said Rudolph Reimer, commissioner of immigration.
Strachey, who left the United States in 1935 in the midst of efforts to deport him, had planned a lecture tour.
"I have a passport and it was properly visaed," the writer told ship reporters. "I am not a communist, I am a socialist and I once was a laborite member of parliament."

Prague Sources Learn Drive Is Already Launched

To Forego Further Military Advance Only On Condition Republic Ends Alliances With Russia and France

Outlawing of Communist Party in Czechoslovakia and Adoption Anti-Semitic Policy Is Demanded By Reich

Prague, Oct. 10 (AP)—Germany was reported in informed circles today to have launched a campaign of pressure upon Czechoslovakia aimed at reducing the Republic to the status of a vassal of the Nazi state.
Berlin, whose armies already have completed occupation of the fifth zone of territory ceded by Czechoslovakia, was said to have hinted it would forego a further military advance only on condition that Czechoslovakia end its alliances with Russia and France.

Other Points Dominated
Further points of the Nazi program were reported as follows:
1. A customs union which might lead eventually to complete domination by Germany.
(It was reported in Berlin Saturday that no demand had been made upon Czechoslovakia to abolish her alliances with Russia and France, but political circles believe part of Germany's price for economic appeasement with Prague would be severance by Czechoslovakia of these two pacts, which are at cross-purposes with Germany's foreign policy.)

(2) Outlawing of the Communist party by Czechoslovakia.
(3) An agreement by which German troops might pass through Czechoslovak territory in event of war in eastern Europe.

(4) Adoption of an anti-semitic policy by Prague sufficient to prevent anti-Nazi activities
by Jews in Czechoslovakia.

High Czech quarters said this new German pressure would be resisted bitterly, despite realization that under threat of further German occupation, submission might be the only way of preserving even the semblance of independence.

Offered Railroad For German Depot
The Germans have offered Czechoslovakia use of a confiscated railroad across Nazi occupied territory connecting Prague and Moravia-Ostrava in Northern Moravia in return for establishment of a German station in the southern city of Brno and use of the line from Brno southeastward to Bratislava.

German troops moved today into Petražovka, directly across the Danube river from Bratislava, completing occupation of the area along the border of Slovakia.
Meanwhile Hungarian demands were pressing the Prague government. It was reported here that these demands include cession without a plebiscite of the strip of territory of southern Slovakia south of a 275-mile line from Bratislava eastward through Nitra and Kosice to Uzhorod.

Area Varies In Width
This area, which if ceded would loft off the entire southern borderland of Slovakia, varies in width from 40 miles at Nitra to 18 at Uzhorod, which is on the Slovakia-Ruthenia border. Its average width

Mrs. Coogan Loses Suit for $40,000

Los Angeles, Oct. 10 (AP)—Jackie Coogan's mother, Mrs. Lillian Bernstein, lost today in her move to obtain release of $40,000 in securities placed in the hands of a receiver pending hearing of the actor's $2-000,000 suit for an accounting of his childhood earnings.
Mrs. Bernstein told the court she needed the money to provide for another son, Robert, and her mother, Superior Judge Emmet Wilson declined to grant the release.
Arthur Bernstein informed the court, in an answer to his stepson's charge that he earned enough money as a racing bookie to support Mrs. Bernstein and Robert,

German Army in Complete Control Of Sudetenland

Troops Now Holding All Territory Awarded By Four-Power Rulings

Occupation Accomplished Without Trouble Despite Heated Atmosphere

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, Oct. 10 (AP)—The German army tonight had complete control of all Sudeten German territory awarded from Czechoslovakia by the Munich four-power accord and decisions of the International Commission sitting in Berlin.

"Within ten days the national change of title to Sudetenland was accomplished," Dienst aus Deutschland observed, "and nowhere were there incidents worth mentioning, although the atmosphere had become decidedly heated through events preceding."

Dienst aus Deutschland reflects the general attitude of both official and unofficial Germany.

(Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in a Sunday address at Saarbruecken inferentially placed at 10,000 square miles the amount of Czechoslovak territory occupied. Unofficial estimates had placed it at 11,500 square miles.)

Public Shows Relief

There is a feeling of relief that the entire Sudetenland occupation occurred smoothly and, so far as the army is concerned, practically on the minute.

In the opinion of foreign office commentators the real work now begins.

The task is two-fold—bringing the Sudetenland administration in line with the rest of the Reich and solving the multitude of German-Czech problems, chiefly of an economic nature, arising from German acquisition of Sudetenland.

As the first outward gesture Chancellor Hitler decreed that the Swastika flag is the flag of the Sudetenland as well.

Secondly, he decreed that the Reich's coat of arms and the official seals be used throughout the newly-absorbed territory.

Thirdly, German law now applies to the Sudetenland.

More difficult than these self-evident measures, however, were a maze of economic problems to be faced.

Many Problems Remain

As these economic problems involve relationships with Czechoslovakia, the international commission of ambassadors again refrained from meeting and left the problems to be worked out by an economic subcommittee.

Dienst aus Deutschland supported predictions there might be no plebiscites held in areas of mixed German and Czech populations in what remains of Czechoslovakia by stating that such plebiscites, if occurring at all, "would prove necessary only in the most exceptional cases."

is about 25 or 30 miles. Previous reports have been that Hungary had demanded 6,000-odd square miles of territory, about the size of the strip described above, but were less definite as to location.

Italy May Demand Paris Cut Loose From Moscow

Rome, Oct. 10 (AP)—Informed quarters expressed a belief tonight that Premier Benito Mussolini would demand that France renounce her alliance with Soviet Russia as an essential part of any French-Italian reconciliation.

A fresh outburst of bitterness against France appeared in the Fascist press and political circles viewed the campaign as a warning that the French need not expect re-establishment of friendly relations with Italy at bargain rates.

(Reports of a new French-Italian understanding spread with signing of the four-power accord at Munich, and Premier Daladier of France last Tuesday announced Paris soon would be able to send an ambassador to Italy, resuming normal diplomatic relations broken off late in 1936 after the Italo-Ethiopian war.)

It was reported in Paris the cabinet would meet Tuesday or Wednesday to name a new envoy.)

Press Lauds Rome Actions

Along with the press attack upon France came much praise for Italy's "unilateral" contribution to international appeasement through the plan announced Saturday for withdrawal of part of her troops from insurgent Spain.

The newspapers insisted that no further sacrifices in the cause of peace could be expected from Italy without corresponding gestures from others. No mention was made of the Spanish government moves to repatriate all foreign combatants who had been fighting with its armies.

Virginia Clayda, authoritative Fascist editor, referred in his II Giornale d'Italia in unusually strong terms to France's "avid egotism, overbearing pretentiousness, general jealousy, intrigue, continuous hostility and unremitting march toward the depths of subversive criminality."

Clayda took exception to what he said was the French attitude that Italians were inferior people.

No hope was held for recovery of sight, but the cornea was all right. So they grafted Parsons' cornea on Van Horn's eyeball. It will be 10 days or more before Van Horn will know whether the operation will restore his vision.

Bulgarian Chief of Staff Assassinated

Major General Yordan Is Shot Six Times and His Adjutant Is Wounded

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 10 (AP)—The chief of staff of the Bulgarian army, Major General Yordan Peyeff, was shot to death in a Sofia street today by a two-gun assassin who then tried to kill himself.

Gen. Peyeff, 55, died enroute to a hospital. He had six bullet wounds. His adjutant, Major Stoyanoff, also was struck by some of a full dozen shots fired and was in a serious condition.

The shots were fired by a man who gave his name as Stoi Kiroff, 33. He was expected to die from self-inflicted wounds.

May Be Terrorist

Rumors that Kiroff was a former official and political conspirator, who was recently released from jail, were discredited by police. They were investigating, however, the possibility the assassin belonged to "Imro," a terroristic organization which played an important role formerly in Bulgarian politics.

Gen. Peyeff apparently was well liked in the army because he seemed entirely disinterested in politics. The Bulgarian press feared the murder might start a feud similar to the Macedonian terror which rocked the country until several years ago.

Fires With Two Pistols

Eye-witnesses said the slayer held a pistol in each hand, firing a stream of shots from each.

Major Stoyanoff wheeled around and flung himself in front of his chief.

A special session of the cabinet was called tonight. Shortly after the crime King Boris, who had been staying at his summer palace at Varna, left for the capital by special train.

to prevent attack "by radical anti-Catholic elements."

St. Stephen's Square tonight again was goal of hundreds of evening promenaders. At about 7 p. m. police cleared the square and drew a cordon around it, permitting neither pedestrians nor carriages to pass.

In informed circles it was denied emphatically that the Cardinal had been taken into protective custody, as persistently reported.

Vatican 'Pained' By Mob's Assault On Its Churchman

Vatican City, Oct. 10 (AP)—Vatican circles said today that news of the attack Saturday night upon Theodore Cardinal Inuitzer, Archbishop of Vienna, in his palace has created a "painful" impression here.

These sources said full details were being awaited before any decision was made regarding a formal protest.

Reflects Vatican Sentiment

L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, reflected Vatican sentiments in an editorial note appended to a news dispatch reporting the attack.

Its comment said: "It is with a sense of consternation that we publish the painful news to which we shall refer again as soon as we shall have had direct information concerning the motives and details of so grave a violence."

Raise Christian Protests

"But for the moment, fraternally united with Austrian Catholics, with those of all countries and with all honest persons—the news disheartened the night before last produced a most grievous impression everywhere—we raise our Christian and civilized protests extending to the Most Eminent Archbishop of Vienna the sentiments of sincere and profound condolence for the outrage perpetrated upon his person and in him upon religion and the Church of Christ."

Labor Board Wins In Three Cases To Lose in Only One

Supreme Court Decides To Review Decisions of Lower Courts

Court, with Justices Reed And Black Dissenting, Rule Against Mooney

By The Associated Press

Supreme Court orders at a glance:

The court refused to review a lower court decision against Thomas J. Mooney.

It granted requests of the National Labor Relations Board for review of two lower court decisions against the board, and denied an employer's request for review of another decision favorable to the board.

The justices granted the request of the Ford Motor Company for review of a circuit court order permitting the labor board to withdraw litigation for amendment of procedure.

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt's two appointees to the Supreme Court have tried in vain to persuade the tribunal that it should review a lower court decision against Thomas J. Mooney, the labor leader who has been fighting for 20 years against his conviction of complicity in a famous bombing.

This was disclosed today when the court, with Justices Black and Reed dissenting, refused Mooney's request that it review the decision announced last October 31 by the California Supreme Court.

Seen as Last Chance

To some legal minds this meant that Mooney had lost his last chance of being saved by the high court from the life sentence he is serving after being convicted of complicity in the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing at San Francisco.

However, counsel for the imprisoned man obtained permission from Chief Justice Hughes to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus within the next 20 days. The court denied a similar petition three years ago.

Justices Black and Reed noted dissent to the court's order publicly, a rare procedure, but they made no comment.

The Mooney case was among approximately 300 which accumulated during the court's four-month summer recess and were considered for review.

Three Labor Decisions

In four cases involving the National Labor Relations Board, three of the orders were in line with the board's wishes and the fourth was to the contrary.

The board was granted reviews of two adverse lower court decisions. An employer's request for review of another decision, favoring the board, was denied. The board failed, however, in its effort to prevent review of a Federal Circuit Court order permitting it to withdraw litigation against the Ford Motor Company for amendment of procedure.

Reviews granted the board concerned:

1—A board contention that men who strike during a labor dispute retain their status of employees even though they were under contract not to strike. The Seventh Circuit Court at Chicago ruled against the board on this issue in a case involving the Columbian Enameling and Stamping Company of Terre Haute, Ind.

2—A decision by the Sixth Circuit Court denying enforcement of a board to reinstate employees of the Sands Manufacturing Company of Cleveland.

Labor Board Upheld

A review was denied the Memphis Furniture Manufacturing Company, which had made an unsuccessful attack in a lower court on the labor board's authority to order reinstatement of 13 employees.

In some of its other orders the court:

Agreed to review a lower court order that $586,000 of impounded funds be turned over to livestock commission men at Kansas City. The money represents the difference between rates fixed by Secretary Wallace and higher ones actually charged by the commission men. It was impounded during litigation which resulted in Wallace's rate-fixing order being declared invalid by the Supreme Court. Now the secretary is trying to have the money returned to farmers.

Denied reviews of state court convictions of Anna Marie Hahn, under sentence of death for murder at Cincinnati, Ohio, and of Charles (Lucky) Luciano and five others for operation of a vice-ring in New York City.

and to "hog-tie the great judicial federal commissions."

To cap the climax," Vandenberg asserted, "his dynamic, 'ditto' friends and satellites are already seeking to build for him a third, consecutive presidential term—which Vandenberg refused, which Jefferson repudiated, which none of their successors has ever dared pursue and which easily could end all but the shadow and fiction of democracy."

New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—Col. James A. Moss, U. S. A. retired, president general of the United States Flag Association, ruled today, in answer to a Brooklyn woman's inquiry made originally of Mayor LaGuardia, that it is all right not to stand during a rendition of the Star Spangled Banner if you are:—

British Troopers Occupy Bethlehem, Kill Eleven Arabs

Infantry, Air Forces and Police Participate in Concerted Attack

Church of the Nativity Is Entered for the First Time in Many Weeks

JERUSALEM, Oct. 10 (AP)—British forces killed 11 Arabs in the Beisan valley and re-occupied the town of Bethlehem today as they launched the first of a series of punitive actions to curb the Holy Land's growing terrorism.

Ground troops, Royal Air Force planes and police participated in the Beisan valley attack in which a large quantity of arms and ammunition was captured from an Arab in a recent battle.

The re-entry of the troops into Bethlehem, where the Arabs gained the upper hand several weeks ago, was greeted with expressions of great relief by the large Christian population of this birthplace of Christ.

Bethlehem's Church of the Nativity, one of the most sacred shrines of Christendom, presented a grim, warlike aspect as long cavalcades of armored cars and motor trucks filled with British soldiers lumbered into the square in front of the historic edifice.

Bearded Franciscan monks in brown cassocks followed by American Catholic priests in white stoles threaded their way through long lanes of machine-guns, rifles and trench mortars to enter the church for the first time in many weeks.

Church Long Abandoned

The church, said to be built over the manger in which Christ was born, had been abandoned to the insurgents since the British troops lost control of Bethlehem.

A realistic martial touch was imparted to the scene around the church by hastily thrown up barbed wire barriers and sand-bagged machine-gun emplacements.

Intense activity was seen at all British army camps throughout Palestine. Preparations were being made to accommodate reinforcements which the Colonial office in London announced yesterday will arrive within the next two or three weeks.

These new troops, estimated at 4,000 men, will bring to 21,000 the number of British soldiers and police seeking to restore order.

They are expected to help "reconquer" Palestine, many parts of which have been under Arab "insurgent" rule for weeks.

News Agencies Active

Anticipating the publication of a royal commission's report on partition of Palestine into Arab and Jewish states and a British mandated section, many of the world's large news agencies were sending additional correspondents here.

It was the recommendation of a previous royal commission for this partitioning which touched off Arab-Jewish disorders on July 3, 1937. Hundreds of persons have been killed in subsequent outbreaks.

Palestine, meanwhile, continued life with rumors that the British government intended to curtail sharply Jewish immigration and give the Jews only a tiny puppet state along the coastline from Haifa to Tel Aviv.

Tenants Seeking Loans For Farms

College Park, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—Tenant farmers in four Maryland counties are applying in large numbers for loans to buy farms, E. I. Oswald of the university of Maryland extension service said today.

Oswald, executive secretary of the state farm security advisory committee, said $158,110 has been allocated for loans to farmers in Frederick, Charles, Worcester and Queen Anne's counties. Other counties failed to set up administrative machinery for the loans being made under the Bankhead-Jones farm tenancy act which was designed to aid share-croppers, farm laborers and farm tenants. In Maryland, the loans are being made chiefly to tenants.

Queen Anne's county received the first loan last week and five others have been approved. The loans, payable within forty years at three per cent, totalled $43,000 in the county. The tenancy rate there is 51.8 per cent, the highest in the state.

The applications are passed upon by committees from each county who calculate the farming ability of the applicant as one of the requisites toward a loan.

$75,000,000 in Art Impaired During Fire in Baltimore

Famous Collection Moved As Flames Near Walters Gallery

Three Alarm Fire Gives Firemen Hard Battle; Six Cut By Glass

Baltimore, Oct. 10 (AP)—Fire which gutted an adjoining building imperiled today the $75,000,000 collection of the famous Walters art gallery.

Gas masked firemen carried to the street a priceless tapestry, a portrait of the Franco-flemish school which was woven in 1475, after six firemen were cut by falling glass.

The blaze was discovered in the early morning in the home of the late Henry Walters, son of the museum's founder. The house, facing the Washington monument near mid-town, is connected by a second floor runway across an alley with the museum. The house was used by the museum as a photography and retouching department.

Move Valuable Paintings

When the flames spread firemen removed several valuable paintings near the runway, to a distant part of the gallery. The paintings included: "Margaret Wilson," by Sir Henry Raeburn; "The Duke of Portland," by Sir Joshua Reynolds; "Landscape with Figures," by Thomas Gainsborough; "The Countess of Sutherland," by Sir Thomas Lawrence; "Miss Lockwood" and "Mrs. Frere," both by George Romney; "St. Michael's Mount, Cornwall," by J. M. W. Turner; "The Lock," by John Constable and "Beach Scene with Figures," attributed to Richard Parks Bonington.

None of the art treasures was damaged.

Furniture Destroyed

The tapestry was carried out of a workroom in the burning house. Morgan Marshall, administrator of the gallery, said it had been taken there for repairs.

The fire, which reached three alarm proportions, destroyed and damaged victorian furniture with which the home was furnished when it, with the gallery, was bequeathed to the city.

Firemen said they believed the blaze originated in the photographic and retouching rooms.

British To Have New Defense Army

War Secretary Plans To Place Territorial Force In The Regulars

London, Oct. 10 (AP)—War secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha tonight announced complete reorganization of the Territorial army, Britain's home defense force, to put it on a regular army footing.

Disclosing the changes at an officers' dinner, the minister asked swiftly following the pledge last week of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to "make good our deficiencies" shown during the European crisis.

Hore-Belisha said the reorganization would "produce an up-to-date army capable of reinforcing the regular army by units or formations."

Up to now the Territorial army, which is a volunteer, part-time force of about 200,000 men, has been regarded as a purely home defense organization.

The war secretary reviewed the work of mobilizing 50,000 men of anti-aircraft and coastal defense units during the past crisis.

He made only a passing reference to widespread criticism concerning shortage of anti-aircraft guns.

O'Connor Against Boost in Taxes

La Plata, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—Tobacco growers of Southern Maryland were assured today by Attorney General Herbert R. O'Connor, Democratic nominee for governor, that "there will be no additional tobacco taxes" during his term of office if elected.

"I shall regard it as one of the first obligations of my administration to see that fair and just treatment is accorded to the tobacco growers of the state, insofar as the state can secure such treatment," he told an audience made up of many tobacco farmers.

"I can say with certainty that there will be no additional tobacco taxes imposed by the state during my administration. The state tobacco warehouse will be placed in charge of the most competent official I am able to select and no one will be appointed who does not possess a thorough knowledge of conditions affecting the industry in Maryland as well as a determination to serve the tobacco growers of the state with courtesy, efficiency and fairness."

O'Connor asserted tobacco prices in the South where the product is sold at public auction "is good," but that in Maryland where tobacco is sold by sample, "prices are unusually low."

Man, Dying From Knife Wound in Skull, Gives Clue to His Assailant

Baltimore, Oct. 10 (AP)—Police announced tonight they had arrested a negro and obtained a confession from him in the slaying of Robert Scott of Washington.

Scott died yesterday in City Hospital from a knife wound which penetrated his skull. Police said he was stabbed during a fracas with a man who tried to wrest his coat from him.

Before he died, police said he was able to describe the assailant.

Sgt. Carl Walter and Patrolman Louis Vinup arrested Paul Bennett, the negro on the basis of the description.

Bennett was docketed on a murder charge and held for a hearing after police announced he confessed the slaying.

Senator Murray's Son In Court As Speeder

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—The case of Charles Murray, 27, son of Senator Murray (D-Mont.), who was arraigned in Riverdale, Md., justice of the peace court today on speeding charges, was continued for ten days.

The senator's son was charged with driving a car in excess of sixty miles an hour on the Washington-Baltimore highway early Sunday.

Murray was arrested near College Park, Md., by Maryland State Police Corporal James R. Miller. He was released under $500 bond and was arraigned before a justice of the peace.

are always an indication of a Good Community . . . .

ROSENBAUM'S

A Cumberland Institution Since 1848

SO SAY the group of scientists who make Communities a study. We at Rosenbaums' don't put it just that way, however. We like to say that "A Good Community makes good Stores," which probably adds up to the same thing. And, when you think about it, the retailer is actually the Commissary of the Community. The Community would not live without its stores and, of course, it is obvious that stores could not live without the Community. There is a close companionship there and a common dependency that is responsible for the great pride we feel in Cumberland—the great interest which often surpasses the commercial aspects of business.

And with you, it is our great urge to be worthy of the pride and interest you must have in us if we are to be one of the "indications" of the goodness of our city.

Business, after all, is nothing more—and nothing less—than the orderly arrangement of the common affairs of all our lives. The retailer must anticipate the wants of the Community and prepare in advance for them. That is his great problem and great service. It would be a bit annoying if, some rainy day, you stepped in for a pair of rubbers and the salesman said, "They will be $1.50. If you will give me the money, we will send for them and you probably will have them in three weeks." That would have to happen, if, on a dry sunny day, we did not look ahead to your visit on a rainy one and provide for it. That is how intimately a part The Retailer is of the Community—why he works so hard to please you—why in a good forward-looking Community of smart people with high standards of living, he has an opportunity to build a good store, indicative of a good and great Community. We at The Rosenbaum Store, never forget that you determine what we can be—what we must be—in Cumberland.

CHAPTER 37

AND Marjorie had been for an hour when Ronald yielded to rain and great were falling rhythmically on the windows. Judy was in that it would be Ronald's that would say "Judy?" she picked up the phone. "I wanted to wait for you," he said. "I had an engagement. Some day maybe I can show you how grateful I was for your hospitality tonight." "Was everything all right?" Judy asked. "Did your visitor find his way to the mountainside to the house?" "He didn't," said Marjorie. "I'm sorry." "It doesn't matter. Maybe it's better," she spoke quickly. "Ronald, there's no way that I can keep on believing in me, you, Judy? That counts. His voice was troubled. "Ronald, your friends are with you. You know that!" emphasized her words to force into his consciousness. "You are, I won't miss those who are dropping out," he answered. "I did not ask her to meet him. There was no suggestion of dinner. Alone in the quiet of the dead telephone in hand, Judy felt a heart-sick because she had refused his invitation that day he was so sure. But there had been Abbey here was she now? How was she taking this? "The boys came in the mist. There was a cool green and in the green misty paper there were old-fashioned roses—marigolds, jonquills, pinkies, violets and yellow roses. They were enough for a low vase two bowls. "Before she drank fruit juice and coffee, Judy remembered that her father had said. She stood still, hands with blossoms, trying to remember when last that small red made its morning appearance. Until now she had not. "I could let one man glide out of my life and never know his name. Someone told you about it. Yet, if another man turned a corner—oh, any corner—and a block out of your path, knew it and your heart trailed feverishly. "Was it love? Was it only chemistry, a divine chemistry, that made one person infinitely dear? The clock was striking 8:30 and she was due at 9, so she hurried. She would call Ronald later and thank him for the flowers. But it was late afternoon when she did. Ronald was not in. He would call her, the secretary said. She asked Judy to wait a moment, and presently the warm tones of Mr. Heaton came flowing across the wire. "Judy, your father is anxious to have an interview with you," he explained. "Could you make it at my office some time tomorrow?" "Is it important?" Judy asked. "Could he write me?" "Judy, you mustn't be too hard on him. He's had a great worry on his shoulders. He's done a monumental feat in making such a swift comeback. You have a father of whom to be proud." "A father who gave my governesses checks to buy me dolls that could walk and dolls that could talk; a father who sent me to the best schools and camps but never once took me hiking because he liked being with me; no, that wasn't quite fair. Before Sarita had come along, when she was only six and seven, he had taken her fishing and told her stories. After that he had changed. Oh, a woman could do a great deal to a man, especially a man who was not strong enough to follow the way he charted when his eyes were wide and his path clear! "She might have weakened but Mr. Heaton was saying: "People are talking, Judy. They wonder why you have broken your relations with your parents. Your father is deeply hurt. Sarita is being censured, and that pains you," father greatly. "Not, am I lonely? Am I hurt? Sarita is being censured. The moment was gone. Mr. Heaton had lost his cause with his own last argument. Judy smiled a little. Not a happy smile. Not a young smile. An old tragic, cynical lifting of the lips. Mr. Heaton was a lawyer. He should have known better than to overplay his case. "You tell my father that I'm well and happy and fairly successful? I appreciate his interest—but I mustn't trouble him." She hung up. "Judy had been able to obtain a job for Coralee Myers in the fitting department. Coralee, deeply grateful, came by as Judy sat at the desk. "Miss Rogers, are you ill?" she asked quickly. "No, I'm fine. I was just thinking how nice it must be to have a family." She smiled wanly. Coralee hesitated. "You've always said you wanted to meet mine. Would you come out some night for dinner?" "I'd love to. How soon?" "Tomorrow night?" "I'll be waiting for it to be tomorrow." Coralee hesitated. "Our house is poor, you know. My father has a queer kind of job. He can do it at home while his leg heals. He's a penman. I mean he does fancy writing for diplomas and things for some company." She was apologetic and proud both. "That's splendid," Judy said gently. Men who couldn't make an intelligible scrawl, but who had gone through a process of training to achieve that scrawl, wrote their names on limitless checks. Coralee's father could cross his t's and round his o's and had no papers of his own on which to put the perfect copy. In a burst of sympathy for Coralee Judy went shopping when she left the studio. She knew how many small children there were in that New Jersey household. She bought a yellow sweater, two strands of beads, some dolls and an electric train and a box of candy. She asked to have the packages delivered to the studio the next day as she could go directly home from work with Coralee. But on the subway she remembered that the poor were proud. The Myers family was offering its hospitality, graciously and happily. If she came with her arms filled with largesse which could not be repaid with a pork chop and a baked potato, they would be hurt. There was no way to explain to them that they were giving her more than she brought them. That they let her share a home, that they taught her that families did live together. She would take the candy to them, and cancel the rest of the order. Some friends had invited Judy to join them at the theater that evening, and she was nearly ready when her doorbell rang. Thinking that the people were early, she went to the button which released the door. The bell rang again. Apparently the latch had not released. She pressed hard, and went into the hall to look down but behind her came the insistent ringing. Oh, of course! She was stupid. They were waiting for her to talk through the speaking tube, something she seldom did. She said: "Yes?" A strange masculine voice answered: "Is Ronald Birrell there?" Before she could answer, the voice came more quickly: "Is this Abbey Boland?" (To Be Continued)

Hunters Are Warned Against Firing Trees

Hunters who set trees afire to get out squirrels create a grave hazard, according to H. C.ingham, district forester, who said that the practice be stopped. Identified hunters fired a tree Sunday, he said, leaving burning. Adjacent trees and brush were ignited when it toppled, and several hours were required to extinguish the resultant fire, which caused considerable damage.

Sparkle in Eyes Due to Health, Animation

ANCES GIFFORD... good health keeps a sparkle in her eyes.

By HELEN FOLLETT

FROM the beauty standpoint, should be neither too round nor long, should be set apart the shape of the eye. We can't change the shape of the eye, but we can change the animation and that's what counts. Without question the eyes are the most interesting feature, the most remembered.

Big, dark, curly eyelashes lend animation, even to eyes that are less. The shaping of the eyelids should conform to the outline of the eye. Ducky eyes have gone for phantom eyebrows haven't they? Those who wear them are scimitars have more substance now; girls look like human instead of wraiths. Not that approve of letting eyebrows go. Oh, mussy, no!

eyebrows brings a train of beautiful—frowns, turkey tracks, sunken, headache. If the poor smart and burn and a boy's solution doesn't help, toddle to the specialist. If you like to wear glasses, have an optician select for you.

exercises are all right when doctor says so. But don't plan own. Eyes are hard workers, need rest, not extra helium in the United States, as well as played a vital role in the drama of relativity.

It is possible that this field of scientific study, so often looked down upon as the most useless of the sciences, may yet prove to be that stone in the edifice of learning which the builders rejected but which came to be the cornerstone.

Face Saving Stunt

FURTHER EVIDENCE of the befuddlement of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has been given in his orders for a drastic reorganization of the agricultural department.

The shake-up is stated by him to be for the purpose of promoting greater efficiency in its far-flung activities. Department officials said it would not require congressional action but would nevertheless carry out, insofar as the agriculture department is concerned, the major objectives of President Roosevelt's reorganization program. That program, however, failed of enactment at the last session of the Congress and it is not clear just how the "major" objectives can be carried out.

Wallace's troubles are not in the main connected with reorganization matters, although plenty could be found there. He is in a terrible quandary over the failure of the New Deal farm program to work out according to specifications, and the reorganization orders would appear to be in the nature of a face-saving stunt.

Profiting From Experience

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has been represented by an authoritative source as having decided to make no campaign speeches in any state with the possible exception of New York, where a test of extraordinary importance is in prospect.

The disclosure was made after a Democratic delegation from Pennsylvania called on the President at Hyde Park. Pennsylvania's secretary of state, David Lawrence, a member of the group, made a similar report.

This appears to be one of the few instances in which the President is profiting from past experience. The speeches he made in the primary campaigns didn't produce such hot results.

Their Own Affairs

WITH THE MENACE of war out of the way, the American people can view in proper perspective the importance of the coming election. The views of candidates for Congress regarding great national policies should be learned and carefully evaluated. Shall the vast spending program of the government be indorsed and encouraged, or should the outcome of the Congressional election be a warning that the people disapprove?

The settlement in Europe gives the people of the United States opportunity to undertake seriously the business of adjusting their own governmental affairs.

The Riches of Aunt Abby

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Aunt Abby has been dead these twenty-five years and more, but those who knew her will never be forgetting her. She remains in their memories as a strong old woman who was afraid of neither death nor life.

Aunt Abby lived alone in a little house out on the coast of California. When she was a little girl and a young woman, however, she lived in New Jersey and when she was hardly more than a child her parents married her to a farmer more than twice her age. . . . The life was hard, the husband was something more than difficult. . . . Two children, a boy and a girl, were born and life became harder and at last reached the point where she would stand it no longer. She did not whine, she was not sorry for herself, but she decided to act!

Back then, more than 65 years ago, it was unthinkable where Aunt Abby lived for any wife to sue for divorce—almost as unthinkable that a wife should LEAVE her husband. But Aunt Abby left him. He knew she was going to do it, and he threatened that if she did, he would keep the children. But she left him and took the children. What Aunt Abby made up her mind to do, she did.

It was summertime when she left, and fortunate for Aunt Abby that it was. She left the house with little Minnie and Will and lived for a whole week down in the cornfield before a sympathetic neighbor wife helped her to get away.

Aunt Abby left Minnie in a Shaker colony on the way out west and afterward when she sent for her daughter, Minnie wrote that she wanted to stay and be a Shaker. So Aunt Abby, whose religious faith was bare but sufficient, did not interfere. She left Minnie to be a Shaker.

Will remained with her and became a successful, prosperous man. Once, when he was a boy, he broke his leg and a doctor set it badly. The boys at school called him "Limp," and Aunt Abby could not bear her boy's humiliation. So one day she broke his thin little leg herself, reset it properly and he never limped again.

He died a few years ago in my state, respectable, respected, still loving that strong mother of his.

Aunt Abby died as sturdily as she had lived—almost alone, but by her own wish. She used to get up from her bed every day and go out in the yard and chop wood. She said she had always been curious about what death was like. Now she would find out for herself and she expected to pass out as quietly as though she were merely walking across the street to visit a neighbor. So that's how she died, just as quietly, without a whimper. . . . Aunt Abby would have it so.

She left practically no possessions. Almost her only estate was the example she set, to all who knew her, of how to go through life without whining and how to leave it bravely. She was not "lovable," but she was greatly deserving of love.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

George Spelvin, the average American, has been asking some questions lately which I pass along to the War Department.

Mr. Spelvin read a story in the Saturday evening Post a few months ago by an American official who had just done a trick as an observer in Spain, which said that the Germans had an anti-aircraft gun, which, in the words of a World War humorist, would get you if they just wrote your name on the shell. The missile had a touchy snout which would explode on impact with the wing of a plane and blow the ship to splinters, and their gunnery and apparatus were so smart that it was death, certain-sure, to fly within their keep.

Well, last week Al Williams, one of our most famous military fliers and certainly our most understandable writer on the subject of aerial attack and defense, had a piece in the Scripps-Howard papers which set two miles as the altitude limit for anti-aircraft fire and gave the Germans and Italians all the best of it in attack.

On the basis of this and other fragmentary reading Mr. Spelvin was crowded in the direction of an alarmed belief that the Germans were now the bull of the woods upstairs, too fast and strong for us, including any conceivable combination of our pals, in bombing and fighting, and too well-armed both in volume and accuracy of fire from the ground to permit any hope of our bombing them back.

The Backbone of America.

Mr. Spelvin is no expert, but he is, remember, as his old man was before him, and his son will be behind him, the manpower of the American army in all wars in defense of the dear old sacred heritage.

Now, Thursday, Mr. Spelvin read a Washington dispatch which said that by next summer our Army intended to have 300 or 400 of the world's most effective anti-aircraft guns or, as he estimated, a little less than half enough guns to defend for a few days against determined bombing the ammunition plants in Bridgeport, Conn.

The War Department has seemed rather proud of this promise of 300 or 400 guns for next summer, but Mr. Spelvin permitted himself to ask what the War Department was fixing to do about the defensive requirements of the whole Atlantic coast from Bath, Maine, to Newport News, including the Brooklyn Navy Yard, New York City, Boston, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore, the national capital and all the works and centers of transportation and population as far west as Pittsburgh.

He was thinking of the east coast alone, being an east coaster, but realized that there might arise, under conceivable circumstances, some defensive problems in the cities of the Great Lakes, the west coast and the Gulf.

The Washington dispatch said that these guns could fire five or six miles up, and Spelvin was inclined to fear that a newspaper reporter might have less expert knowledge of anti-aircraft fire than Major Williams, who had said only yesterday that two miles was tops for this type of artillery.

He's Been Reading "Fighting Fools."

Mr. Spelvin also referred to his reading on the American armament in the World War, including that book called "Fighting Fools," by James E. Edmonds, a National Guard brigadier, and the dismal contrast between our windy boasts and the actual production of fighting stuff.

Although the United States had been a large commercial dealer in munitions for two and one-half years when this country entered the war, the American soldiers fought largely with borrowed arms and borrowed munitions. The Americans had to "obtain" 5,300 heavy machine guns and 34,000 automatic rifles from the French and British.

Of 2,551 field pieces, only 130 were American made, and only one artillery shell out of every million fired by the Americans was manufactured in the United States.

Mr. Spelvin also has read that the American Army had only fifty-five serviceable planes on entering the World War and that, notwithstanding a loud-mouthed promise to "darken the skies" over Germany with ships "raining death from the air," only 667 ships of American manufacture—and most of them poor, clumsy observation kites—ever saw action.

Mr. Spelvin said he wished someone who knows the truth about this country's ability to defend itself and knows how to tell the truth compactly for the common understanding would let him know just how we stand.

NOW PITCHING FOR THE DEMOCRATS

After Five Years of New Deal Needle Shots, Farm Prices Are Lower Still

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

"Quick, Wallace! The hypodermic needle—before the election!"

Perhaps President Roosevelt did not use those exact words but they undoubtedly represent the substance of the instructions given to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace when the cries and groans of the suffering American farmers reached Washington. Of course, Mr. Roosevelt must have been surprised when he learned that prices of major farm products were lower than in 1933, for he repeatedly had told the farmers that everything was all right because "we are planning it that way—don't let anybody tell you differently." And, of course, Mr. Roosevelt would not deliberately mislead anyone.

But it is not surprising that we should surmise that Mr. Roosevelt's first thought was to give the farmer another shot in the arm, for that is the way the New Deal has worked. So Doc Wallace grabbed his black bag and set forth for the wheat and corn states, again to tell the farmers how the New Deal had saved them—that is, ah, ummm ummmm—that is—would save them. Meanwhile Dr. Key Pittman, who does not think Doc Wallace is so hot, got out his own hypodermic needle and proposed that the farm patients in the cotton states be given a little shot of inflation narcotics.

But every time the corn and wheat farmers and the cotton planters looked at the current price quotations, they let out another yell of protest. Not even New Deal drugs proved very soothing. Doc Wallace found himself proposing remedies which a few months ago he had denounced as quackery. Dr. Pittman was heard muttering such words as "hopelessness of present program," "absolute failure," "great loss to the government" and "continuing destruction of foreign markets for American cotton."

Not Funny For Farmers

All of this would be very funny were it not for the tragic plight into which the New Deal has cast American agriculture. It is not funny in the slightest degree because what has happened to farm prices vitally and directly affects almost one-half our population and indirectly affects almost one-half our population and indirectly presses down on the remainder of us. It is certainly not funny for the farmers who have been led to believe that their troubles had been solved.

Here we are, after five years of New Deal hypodermic needles, with farm prices lower than when the schemes for crop control were placed in effect—with prices for the New Deal period far below the previous period from 1921 to 1932. For instance, the annual average price of wheat from 1921 to 1932—and this includes the bottom of the world-wide depression—was $1.017 a bushel. The average annual price from 1933 to 1937—the period of experimental control—was 85.5 cents a bushel, or sixteen percent less. When the 1938 average price can be computed the difference will be much greater because wheat is now selling down around sixty cents a bushel. In the last year the price of wheat has fallen approximately fifty percent.

Here we are, after five years of New Deal wisdom and crop restriction, with a cotton carry-over of 13,400,000 bales—7,000,000 of which are under government loans. Here we are with cotton selling at around eight cents a pound as compared with twelve cents in July last year and an average of 16.7 cents during the 1921-32 period—which again includes the worst period of the world-wide depression.

And here we are, plowing under cotton—destroying cotton when millions need clothing—in order to comply with the provisions of a nonsensical futile farm program. Mr. Roosevelt in 1935 indignantly declared that "it is high time for you and me to make clear that we are not plowing under cotton this year—that we did not plow it under in 1934 and that we only plowed it under in 1933 because the Agricultural Adjustment Act was passed after a huge crop of cotton was already in the ground." Mr. Roosevelt asserted that anyone who said anything to the contrary was "lying."

Is This A "Lie"?

Maybe so, but witness this story which appeared under an Atlanta, Georgia, dateline on September 4 last:

"Thousands of acres of cotton, much of it white with open bolls, ready for picking, are being plowed under by southern farmers eager to qualify for farm bill benefits and to escape its penalties. 'Any accurate estimate of the number of acres being destroyed probably would run high into the thousands. It might be obtained only by a county to county study of the area but, even then, the percentage of error would be high. One county in middle Georgia has almost 2,000 acres subject to penalties if the cotton on them is not plowed up. . . .'

"It is much like 1934," one county agent said."

What does Secretary Wallace now propose? He has become so confused it is a little difficult to tell. He seems to be floundering around like a man in a daze, stunned over the collapse of the Farm act enacted only last January. One day he denounces export subsidies—indeed, none recently has been more denunciatory of export subsidies than Mr. Wallace. The next day he suggests export subsidies as the solution. Then he suggests we go back to processing taxes. Always, he undertakes to give the impression that he knew what would happen all along.

Can't Fool Wallace, He Says

For instance, in his speech at Hutchinson, Kansas, he asserted that "to anyone who has watched the wheat market closely in the last few years, the fall in the price of wheat is not a surprise," and he added: "It was bound to come with the return of ordinary weather." It would have been nice of him to have let Mr. Roosevelt in on that wisdom, for the latter in the 1936 campaign emphatically declared that "by a program of land use and conservation we have ended the possibility of immediate glut."

A few months earlier Mr. Roosevelt said that "steps like these which we have taken and are taking will at least greatly cushion depressions and prevent the up-curve from rushing to a violent, mad peak of false prosperity and prevent another violent, mad descent into another sink of suffering and disillusionment like the one from which, for the last three and a half years, we have been surely emerging."

Of course, Mr. Roosevelt would not deliberately mislead anyone. He just did not know—even if Mr. Wallace did.

Should Think Of Production

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post

Why can't we have mediation between the economic and social forces in the United States? Why can't the government serve the useful purpose of bringing about mutual concessions and sacrifices in the interest of a balanced and workable settlement?

We have only been weakening ourselves and reducing our ability to produce enough for everybody by the strife in which we have become involved and by the philosophy which has been dominant for several years in the federal government.

Instead of talking about $30 every Thursday and other something-for-nothing nonsense, we had better be thinking of producing more. The national wealth cannot be increased merely by dividing a constantly dwindling total among a constantly increasing number of participants. It has been calculated, for example, that the $30 weekly pension craziness which is now gripping California would impose an average tax of $625 a year on every employed Californian. Such a tax would not only be confiscatory in every sense of that word, but in comparatively short order would reduce California to confusion, impotence, and the opposite of the promised prosperity.

Before this monumental nonsense takes newer, different, and more dangerous forms, wouldn't it be far better for the whole country to get back on a sane basis of thrift, prudence, hard work, harmonious relationships, and domestic peace of every kind?

This is a question which we feel addresses itself quite as directly and insistently to the White House as did the threat of European war.

Jefferson and The New Deal

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

Anyone who has taken time to study the life and philosophy of the founder of the Democratic party, Thomas Jefferson, must realize that there is little difference between real Democrats and Republicans in the present national crisis. Both are aghast at the Roosevelt philosophy of bureaucratic domination over industry and individuals. Were Thomas Jefferson alive today he would shudder at the dictatorial tactics of the man of Hyde Park.

The magicians of the New Deal have repudiated Jefferson above all others, and, if not checked they would be on their way directly toward a dictatorship under Democratic labels.

The plain truth is that the party which today bears the label "Democrat" is controlled by leaders who are not Democrats. The administration, by its own admission, has deserted the party based upon dreams of left-wing advisers who would lead this nation along the same paths of totalitarianism which have brought new and fearful autocracy to the nations of Europe.

Franklin Roosevelt by his own words has abandoned his position as leader of the Democratic party. He is striving to form a new party of radical left-wingers, hand-picked, who would glorify the executive branch of the government and make of the legislative and judicial branches nothing but instruments of an all-powerful White House.

The man or woman who cannot see or interpret this trend must be blind indeed.

Unless the American people have lost the independence and hard-headedness which have sustained them through 150 years, the Democrats must judge the New Deal clear and understanding eyes, realize that the first duty of enlightened citizenship is to rescue the nation from a leadership so utterly foreign to the spirit of American institutions.

Revised dictionary definition of the word of diplomacy: Pledge of a freshman in a fraternity.

The Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

In its new bomb shelter, down in the earth, Zurich, Switzerland, has installed not only beds and medical supplies, but a phonograph with a stock of records which play "comforting music." Just what would be comforting to whom and to what degree, such circumstances, would be interesting study.

Anything about the balmy blossom time would be out of its unhappy suggestion, of spring and rainbows and rolling by and singing brooks, even "It Ain't Gonna Rain More" would be somewhat climatic, with bombs dropping head. The old question of single book would you take a desert island? may be replaced by what single record would you take to a bomb cellar? The cynic chooses, of course, "Why Born?" And if this keeps up, only say, "Quien Sabe?"

The first words spoken by Edwax cylinder phonograph, or "ing machine" as it was then, "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than dream of in your philosophy." That first record might be "comforting" to people in a cellar than any of the jukebox jeeps and shag tunes which come along, fifty years later.

In fact, aside from the hymns of religious consolation, are few more comforting words our language. Like St. Paul, Shakespeare knew that the present moment, or even the present, is but a tiny facet of universality. It is a poetic statement, Spinoza's "Viewpoint of Eternity."

But, no matter how comforting the phonograph records may speak only what is spoken. They are neither oracles, ministers of grace. Our limitations are their limitations. We freighted them with, both wax and folly, and that applies to the bomb-dropping airplanes, too. Thomas Alva Edison and Wright brothers, and all men of great cavalcade of science in last half century, forged two swords. They are instruments of good or evil only as we make so.

The British Association for Advancement of Science, meeting at Cambridge, England, seeks to help the marvelous scientific advance into the use and need of an advanced civilization. They appoint a committee to organize and synthesize this effort. It is allied with the work of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, last year.

Not that looks alone ever come

Of Interest to The Motorist

Physical defects, the existence of which he may not suspect, may be accountable for the deficiencies of many a motor vehicle operator. So far as the outward signs are concerned, he may validly regard himself as a perfect specimen and yet he may inwardly be the possessor of defects which make him a danger to himself and to other users of the streets and highways.

A specific illustration is to be found in the case of the driver who has slow braking reaction. Scientific driver tests are peculiarly designed to reveal this flaw to drivers who never have remotely suspected it of themselves.

Scientific tests, in other words, precise laboratory measurements, are not necessary, however, if the motorist is willing to observe himself closely and with complete honesty. Slow braking reaction is one of those things every motorist can determine for himself or herself.

If the driver constantly finds it necessary to make sudden stops, that is, if the obstacle which dictates the stop always seems to creep suddenly upon him, the motorist has reason to suspect that there is something wrong with his braking reaction. If he is moderately vigilant, there is no reason why any stop he must make need be sudden unless, of course, he is sluggish in getting his foot from the accelerator to the brake after perceiving the need to bring the vehicle to a halt.

Any driver, really, is wise to assume that he is slow as to braking reaction time (the interval required to transfer the foot to the brake pedal after finding a stop is dictated) if he seems to have to brake the car harder than other operators.

There is no occasion for embarrassment or dismay at the discovery of such a shortcoming in one's armor as a driver. Many of the best motor vehicle operators are among those with slow reaction time as to braking. They have acquired this skill through the simple expedient of allowing for the defect. The allowance is made consciously in some cases, subconsciously in others. It is simply a matter of recognizing that one is not quite so fast as his fellow man in making this particular maneuver and learning to begin one's stops a bit earlier.

Driving among those past middle years would be more efficient if they realized the truth which is provable in the laboratory, that one's perception and muscular coordination begin to decline at this period of life.

It is an inevitability, just as slow reaction time may be an inevitability in some very young persons, but it does not imply inferior driving ability if the proper steps are taken. And, with reference to taking the proper steps, every driver should know that it is one of the defects of physical makeup which lends itself to most ready diagnosis. Any individual can discover its existence simply by making an honest check on himself.

NEW TIRE ANNOUNCED

A new passenger car tire constructed with a rayon base, instead of the conventional cotton, has been announced.

The rayon used in the new tire is not the ordinary commercial fabric, it is said, but a new silk-type cord called rayotwist, spun from rayon filaments. According to the announcements, the new basic fabric is two-thirds as heavy as the cotton cord now used but 11 per cent stronger. Ordinary cord consists of millions of small fibers, about an inch long, twisted together and forming a rough, thick cord. The new development, rayotwist, because it is thinner, permits more cords to every ply and causes less friction in flexing.

Easier riding and greater strength and mileage is claimed for the new product.

DRIVE TO SAVE MONEY

One's driving methods are more accurately reflected in car operation costs than is generally recognized by motorists. The driver who builds up a lot of speed which he knows is going to be entirely wasted—rushing toward a red light, for instance—is a first-class waster of gasoline and oil. Which, of course, runs high even without recognition.

SPECIAL POLICE HELP

Special police details for investigating automobile crashes are benefiting 20 cities in terms of lowered accident fatalities and improved conviction records, according to the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Four of these cities have installed accident investigation bureaus since January 1 with aid of the IACP traffic safety division. The bureau check causes of all traffic accidents, fix their just blame and carry charges through to conviction where necessary. The total list includes:

Evansville, Ill.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Louisville, Ky.; Bridgeport and New Haven, Conn., which have bureaus of several years' standing; South Bend, Ind.; Cincinnati, Columbus and Dayton, Ohio; Greenwich, Hartford and Waterbury, Conn.; Saginaw and Detroit, Mich.; Miami, Fla.; Atlanta, Ga.; Oakland, Calif.; and Chattanooga, Tenn.

Installations are under way in Cleveland, Ohio. They will take place later this year in Des Moines, Ia., and Knoxville, Tenn. Los Angeles, Long Beach, Calif., and Gary, Ind., are considering establishing the bureaus.

ROADSIDE TELEPHONES

In Germany, a plan has been effected whereby persons traveling on the motor roads of that country may be contacted by telephone. The telephone calls will be accepted at the usual rates and may be directed to any one of the 37 gas stations located on the 1,250 miles of motor roads in Germany. It is necessary that the person who desires to originate the telephone contact make application for such service.

Dorchester County GOP Candidate Drops Dead

Hurlock, Md., Oct. 10. (P)—Walter Rhodes, 50, Republican candidate for Dorchester county commissioner, collapsed and died unexpectedly tonight at a political meeting here.

Rhodes, well-known farmer and canner at Rhodesdale, was sitting in the meeting, which had just named Leroy Tufts chairman. The candidate was dead before doctors could reach him.

GROWS COTTON DESERT

Barstow, Calif.—(P)—Experiments in growing cotton on the Mojave

HOGS CAN COME BACK —BUT FOR WINTER ONLY

Mount Carmel, Ill.—(P)—Police authorities have informed Mount Carmel citizens they may bring their hogs back to town on November 1 for the winter.

Hogs were banished last spring when hot weather brought out neighborhood complaints about odors.

Bloodhounds Used As Aids by Forest Fire Fighters

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 11.—A special investigator and four bloodhounds were ordered on twenty-four-hour-a-day duty tonight as 180 Rangers headed out to take up their stand as the first line of defense against forest fires.

The fall fire season "officially" opens October 15, but outbreak of a few blazes in the northern part of the state sent the Rangers into the timberlands a few days in advance.

Until December 15 they will be on duty in the sixty-nine lookout towers maintained by the state and federal services, and on continual patrol of the timber country.

State Forester Dan Griffin said he anticipated "quite a job" this year too, because of the early opening of the hunting season.

Campaigner Will Speak At Old Company

William D. Byron, who will speak at Oldtown tonight to fire the opening shot of his campaign for election as representative from the Sixth District of the Democratic ticket. The event is to be held at the Old Company store at 8 o'clock, will be featured by music.

Conference On C.&O. Canal

Development of Canal Proposed by William D. Byron

Down, Md., Oct. 11. (AP)—Development of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, recently proposed by the government, has been discussed by William D. Byron, Democratic candidate for congress from the sixth district who will confer in Washington today with Congressman Lewis and some high government officials relative to the project.

Byron said he had made a study of the waterway and is anxious to develop the work, now from Washington to Seneca Lake. He said the canal would make an ideal recreational area for the thousands of visitors annually.

The conference will be preliminary, Byron said, to a meeting with the secretary of the interior and members of the committee on the canal, which will be held at the residence of the canal.

Northern Lights Show During Week

Be Seen any Clear Night, Dr. Clyde
Fisher Declares

Work, Oct. 10 (AP)—Look for the Aurora Borealis to show up any clear night this week.

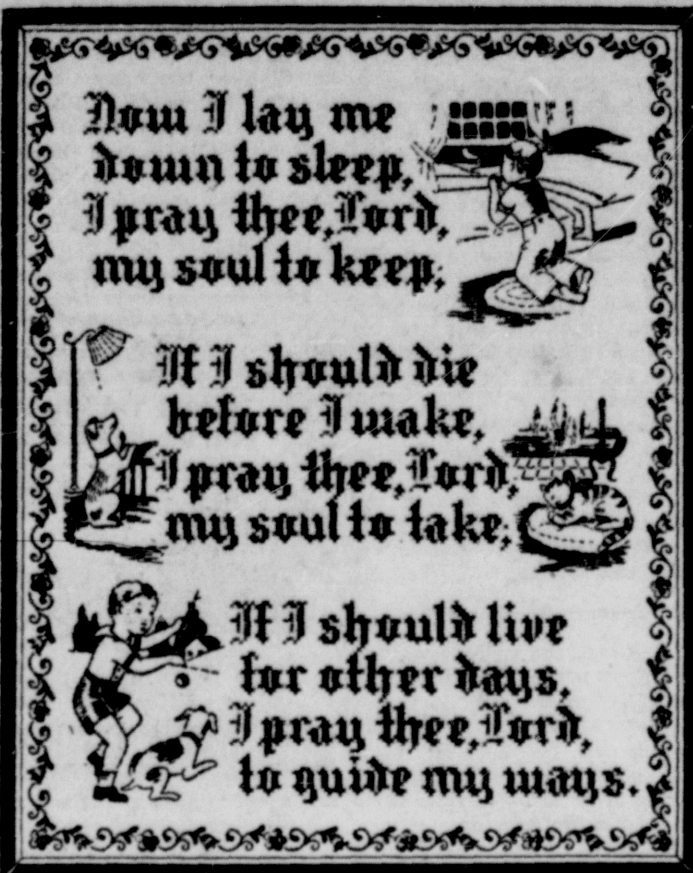

Advantage was issued today by the Fishery, astronomer, American Museum of Natural Science. It was on the announcement, Saturday, from Mt. Wilson, Calif., that the aurora was observed the largest spot of the century.

The spot, about 75,000 miles long and 100 wide, actually a collection of smaller spots, is due to pass over the sun, this week.

Spots in the past, Dr. Fisher said, have frequently been associated with Northern Light disturbances that the present spot is likely to cause an increase in this colored light came to the museum today in a report from an amateur astronomer who said Northern lights Saturday, 230 A. M.

Personal survey shows that it spends more money on its than it does on its shoes. A little item after every heart.

Circulatory System And Its Mechanism

Dr. Clendening Describes How It Distributes Food
And Oxygen to Body Cells

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

In the Century of Progress Building of the Chicago Exposition of a year or two ago there was a transparent man on exhibition. It was a glass figure in the form of the human body, and all the organs, blood vessels and nerves could be seen through the body walls. There was, however, one feature of the anatomical curiosity which made it entirely different from real life. There was no movement.

If a living human being could suddenly be arranged so that all his tissues were transparent, we would be struck first of all by the incessant movement and commotion going on. Most of this would be due to the movements of the circulatory system. The heart would be pumping blood out of its two chambers, one chamber expanding the lungs every second with a fresh burst of blood, the other side shooting blood into all the throbbing arteries of the body.

Distributes Food

We would see the blood corpuscles rapidly moving and crowding out of the arteries into the capillaries and gradually slowing their movements when they enter the veins, and still more slowly making their way back more slowly making. It is this system which is essential for the distribution of food and oxygen and the many other things

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

the body cells need. In our outline of the function of the body in the articles during the last few weeks, we started with the digestive system because that prepares the food so it can be utilized for energy. Then we took up the respiratory system, which brings into the body the oxygen which burns the food. Later we discussed the blood system, which is the medium in which both these are carried to the cells. Now we come to the circulatory system, which pumps the blood to all parts of the body.

Goes in Circle

Circulation comes from a Latin word which means to move in a circle. Accordingly, we must follow the blood in its circle in order to understand the process fully. There are four chambers in the heart, the main one being the ventricles, which are hollow muscular organs. From the left one the blood is pumped out first into the arteries and then through the capillaries. In the capillaries it gives up food and oxygen to the cells and takes up waste products, returning to the right ventricle by way of the veins. The right ventricle pumps the blood out to the lungs, where a number of waste products are removed. After returning to the left ventricle, completing the circle, the cycle begins anew.

Besides the systemic and lung circulation there is a third circulation, or one usually counted as such, in the circulation through the liver. All the food products are absorbed in the intestine and most of them are carried by the portal vein directly to the liver to prepare them for reception by the tissues, and the blood moves on into the right side of the heart.

Another important point in the circulation is the kidney unit where waste products are removed.

Bring in your HOME-HEATING QUESTIONS

IN THE ESTATE HEATROLA

How does Heatrola make coal piles last longer?

Why does Heatrola keep rooms warmer?

How will Heatrola save me lots of work?

Why will Heatrola keep my family healthier in winter?

• The more questions you ask, the more you'll agree with thousands of Heatrola owners, that Heatrola is the world's greatest home heater. It delivers more heat from every pound of fuel. It requires less attention. And it's built to give you years of carefree warmth and comfort.

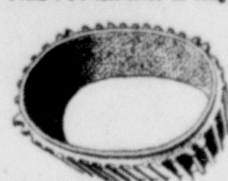

If you're thinking about a new home heater, come in—ask us about Heatrola. Hear with your own ears, see with your own eyes why more people own the genuine Estate Heatrola than any other home heater.

WHY DOES THE HEATROLA TURN WASTE INTO WARMTH?

Because Heatrola's exclusive Intense-Fire Air Duct blocks the upward-rushing heat, sends it out into the rooms.

WHY DOES THE HEATROLA FIRE POT last twice as long?

Because it's made of a new fire-resistant nickel chromium alloy called Estalloy.

WHY DO WOMEN cheer for Heatrola?

One reason is the Push-a-Lever—step on it and the feed door swings open. Leaves your hands free, saves stooping.

WHY DOES "TARRY" PURR about the Estate Heatrola?

Because its scientific base construction takes the cold air in slowly—keeps the floors nice and warm.

WHY DOES THE HEATROLA require less stoking?

Because Heatrola's jointless ash-box, together with its perfect-fitting ash-box door and draft register, gives you perfect control over the fire.

Answer to For Beauty's Sake, Don't Queries on Babies

Dr. Myers Tells Parents
How to Take Care of Problems That Arise.

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

TODAY I want to present the answers to a series of questions about babies that I am repeatedly asked.

Q. When do the baby's first teeth appear?

A. When it is from six to nine months of age. Order and time of appearance for average baby are generally as follows: central (front) incisor, six to nine months; lateral (side) incisors, eight to ten months; first molars (back), 12 to 14 months; canines and cuspids, 18 to 24 months; second molars, two to four years.

Q. When should baby go to the dentist?

A. From about the age of two. Let the child first get acquainted with the dentist to give the latter a chance to win the youngster's confidence. The better the care of the baby teeth, the better the chances for the permanent teeth.

Q. What is a good way to prevent thumb-sucking in the infant?

A. Have very long sleeves on his nightgown which can enclose the hands by a drawstring. Calmly slowly remove the offending thumb when baby is awake. Never jerk it out, scold or punish him. Check with your doctor on proper quality and quantity of baby's food. Provide an atmosphere of serenity.

Why Pacifier Is Bad

Q. Why is a pacifier bad?

A. It can't be kept clean. Sucking on it increases saliva and may reduce appetite. It also may spoil the shape of baby's mouth. With it the baby may swallow air and get stomach ache. A teething ring is better.

Q. Of what value is a teething ring?

A. It helps the teething process. Hard rubber ones are good. Soft objects which encourage sucking are harmful rather than helpful. A good idea also is to let the baby chew on the baked crackers of dark bread, on hard crackers or a cooked chicken bone with no meat on it and no loose parts.

Q. When should the baby begin to eat with the family?

A. Most experts advise that the baby eat away from the family till the age of five or six, some as late as eight or nine. They seem to be thinking only of good eating habits in the child, and not of the family unity and the child's best education.

As early as the age of two or three the child can learn much by eating with the family. Let the adults conduct themselves properly toward the child. Let the child have a comfortable back and foot rest and be allowed to get down when tired. If he has learned elsewhere the meaning of No, his wanting foods not good for him will be no problem.

Hooks 3 On One Line

Bastrop, La., Oct. 8. (U.P.)—Jack Sawyer believes women—at least five he knows—make good fishing charms.

He took five to Lake Enterprise, near Wilmet, Ark., to teach them the finer points of hooking the big ones.

Sawyer was ready to give up when they stuck their poles in the bank and left him to watch them.

He pulled one of their hooks up and changed his mind in a hurry. Three fish, two black bass and a catfish, were on it. The total weight was seven pounds.

The cat was caught on the hook. The line had become entangled in the gills of the two bass.

"Save Tears; Laugh It Off!" Good Slogan

JOYCE MATHEWS ... keeps her spirits high for beauty's sake.

By HELEN FOLLETT

LOW SPIRITS are the enemy of beauty; no woman can afford to indulge in them. When good Queen Victoria was a girl, the melancholy beauty had her fling. What a terrible bore she must have made of herself. "Crystal tears like dew drops on the rose," said the poet. Blubbering, we call it, and that's what it was then. Today's slogan is "Save your tears; laugh it off."

While women seem to have forgotten how to cry, we still have the gloomers among us. They are rushing away from their youth at a fast pace, and will be old women before they are middle aged. They'll gather more wrinkles than you'll find in a yard of crepe, and it'll serve 'em right.

Low spirits lower the vitality of the body. Everything slows up, digestive processes, circulation, body repairs. A happy nature and courage to face whatever life brings along are insurance policies against beauty ills.

Vanity Rules Head Hunters Canberra, Oct. 8. (U.P.)—A report from the lieutenant governor of Papua is to the effect that one of the principal motives for head hunters is to please the girls. The latter have a preference for men who have demonstrated their ability to bring in a human head now and then.

Britain Curbs "Con" Men

London, Oct. 8. (U.P.)—Confidence men are having a lean time in Great Britain. The annual report of Sir Philip Game, commissioner of police, shows that the total loss to their get-rich-quick methods was only $5,195 last year, as compared with $63,720 in 1936.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT DECLARER HATES

ONE THING WHICH a declarer usually hates to have you do is lead a suit which both he and your partner can ruff, your partner getting last whack at the trick. This enables your associate either to over-ruff or conserve a trump, an option which may mean the defeating of the contract.

North passed as dealer on this hand and East bid 1-Spade. West called 2-Hearts, East 2-Spades and South 3-Diamonds. Neither opponent felt like proceeding further, so the contract was played there.

In response to his partner's bids, West led the Spade Q. When declarer won this with the K in dummy, he immediately laid down the spade A, on which he threw the club 5. West ruffed with the diamond 9 and returned the club 2.

which East won with the A. East continued with the club suit, leading the 6, which South ruffed. South then laid down the diamond A, capturing West's K. The result was that he lost one club, two hearts and the trick ruffed by West, so that he made his contract.

When East was in with the club A, instead of returning a club, he should have led another spade, as if South held the A and K of diamonds he would have led two rounds instead of using the spade A for a discard in spite of the fact that East had bid the suit twice.

WHAT MAKES A SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE?

ARE YOU A VICTIM OF IN-LAW FEARS?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

(Copyright, 1938)

Why is it that from the beginning of time in-laws have a way of coming together like wrestlers awaiting the sound of the gong?

If the truth were known, perhaps both sides are victims of fear. In their souls they hope to evade the blight of the word "in-law," thrust upon them like death and taxes; with the best intentions in the world, they don't seem able to sidestep it. They're hypnotized. They wait, ready to pounce on a look or a word that stresses the ticklish relationship in which they find themselves. Sometimes they don't wait. They invade like aggressor nations.

COCKER SPANIEL

Spanyell family dates back to 1386. Cocker is smallest of family. A very popular pure-bred dog in U. S. Standard colors range from solid blacks, reds, to shades of cream; liver red and combinations. Versatile, can be trained into retriever. Great lover of human family.

HE'S GIVING HIS NERVES A REST

...AND SO IS HE

HAVE you noticed how a dog, in the midst of play, suddenly stops and rests? His nerve system—as complicated and high-strung as our own—has signalled that it's time to relax! Man, unfortunately, is less sensitive to the warnings of his nerves. Though nerves may need a restful pause, we are inclined to press on in our absorbing tasks—relentlessly—forgetful of mounting nerve strain. When we find ourselves tense, irritable, upset, we may not even realize why. Don't let tension tie your nerves in a knot. Make it your pleasant rule to break nerve tension often through the day—TO LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL! Feel how gratefully nerves welcome the mellow intermission that your nearby package of Camels suggests. And not only do smokers find Camel's costlier tobaccos soothing to the nerves—but milder, too—ripe-rich in flavor—completely enjoyable from every angle!

Millions of people who live happily LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL

FLAGSHIP PILOT. Captain Walter J. Hunter of American Airlines, speaks for his profession when he says: "Ragged nerves and flying don't mix. I head off nerve tension by giving my nerves regular rests—I let up and light up a Camel. I find Camels soothing to the nerves."

DID YOU KNOW?

—that the grower of tobacco also cures it—in many cases, in barns equipped to apply heat without smoke? That the planter works day and night until the curing process is completed? Selection of Camel's tobaccos requires the services of men familiar with every phase of growing, curing, and aging choice tobacco. It is well known in the tobacco trade that Camel cigarettes are a marvellous blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

"Touchdown Army" Coming to Strand Theatre for Two Days

With John Howard, Mary Carlisle and Robert Cummings playing the chief roles, Paramount's sensational new gridiron romance, "Touchdown Army," boasts a cast of youthful luminaries seldom equaled in a football drama! This picture of romantic rivalry and gridiron heroism at West Point will show tomorrow and Thursday at the Strand theatre.

Cummings' role of the cocksure boy from the home town who is turned into a man by his fellow West Pointers marks a turn in his successful screen career. The young Missourian, who got his start by convincing a Broadway producer that he was an experienced British actor, has been "typed" in juvenile roles since his arrival in Hollywood a few seasons ago. But his recent performance as the Confederate officer in Paramount's Lone Star epic, "The Texans," changed all that and now he plays another he-man role.

Double Feature At The Garden Tonight

A comedian might just as well forget any ideas of maintaining any dignity at home or anywhere else, observes Sammy Cohen, rubber-legged comic who takes considerable rough stuff from Victor McLaglen in 20th Century-Fox's "Battle of Broadway."

"Maybe you earned a Ph. D. in college," said Sammy. "Maybe you can understand Einstein. Maybe you can explain how to stop the recession."

"But when you walk into a restaurant how are you going to get serious attention from the waitress when you know she probably saw Victor McLaglen squirt a whole bottle of ketchup in your face?"

Currently at the Garden Theatre, "Battle of Broadway" is a comic tale of the American Legionnaires in New York, with Brian Donlevy and Louise Lusk in the cast. There are very few screen shows that can boast of the assortment of swing tunes heard in the new Fred MacMurray comedy, "Cocanut Grove," last times today at the Garden Theatre. Put across by MacMurray, radio songstress Harriet Hilliard, the Yacht Club Boys, Rufe Davis and Harry Owens and his band, they number six on all, and come from the pens of some of Hollywood's better known composers.

Heading the hit parade are "Says My Heart" by Lane and Loesser, and "You Leave Me Breathless" by Fried and Hollander. Harry Owens, who penned last year's hit number one, "Sweet Lullaby," besides appearing in a featured part in the new film, has written two smash new musical hits, "Cocanut Grove" and "Dreamy Hawaiian Moon." Rufe Davis has two comic numbers in the piece, "Two Bits a Pair" and "Ten Easy Lessons" composed by gag man Jack Rock.

Marx Bros. Score in "Room Service"

The romance between a small town author and a hotel manager's secretary in New York is threaded throughout the antics of the Marx Brothers at the Liberty in "Room Service," the fun-film adapted from the Broadway stage success of the same name.

Ann Miller is cast in the feminine lead, while Frank Albertson is seen as the hayseed author whose first brain child is accepted for production by Groucho Marx, a producer of questionable reputation. Harpo and Chico play his nimble assistants who are also involved in a plot to promote an "angel" for the show, before their creditors close in. Lucille Ball contributes a new brand of fun-making as the Marx maniacs' star-to-be. RKO Radio produced "Room Service."

"Broadway Musketeers" Tomorrow

Ann Sheridan, who studied to be a school teacher at North Texas Teachers' College and discovered she had an excellent blues singing voice, has been given another of her much too infrequent opportunities to exhibit this talent on the screen.

In Warner Bros. "Broadway Musketeers," which opens tomorrow at the Liberty Theatre, Miss Sheridan sings two songs, both written especially for this production by Moe Jerome and Jack Scholl. They are "Has It Ever Occurred to You?" and "Who Said That This Isn't Love?"

The first song she sings while doing a strip tease dance for the picture. But don't crowd, boys—the night club is raided by police, as a concession to Ann and censorship, before the dance progresses very far. Ann, who possesses an exceptionally mellow, pleasing singing voice, sang for the first time on the screen in "San Quentin."

The vivacious, bubbling story of a small-town girl who comes to New York to seek the man who left her waiting at the altar, only to find herself involved as the romantic pivot between two other men, brings Janet Gaynor, Robert Montgomery and Franchot Tone in the Maryland screen starting Thursday in "Three Loves Has Nancy," their first co-starring picture. A laugh-filled supporting cast features Guy Kibbee, Claire Dodd and Reginald Owen.

Legion Film Is Feature at Garden

A picture which no member of the American Legion or any of the Legion's friends, will want to miss is "Sons of the Legion," Paramount's exciting drama, showing for the last times today at the Strand theatre. The story, guaranteed to touch the heart of every person interested in the problems of the young generation, tells of the rehabilitation of a boy of the streets through contact with youngsters from better homes in the Junior Legion organization.

Some of Hollywood's most talented younger players have the leading roles in "Sons of the Legion." Chief among them is Donald O'Connor, the boy star of Bing Crosby's recent "Sing You Sinners."

PROP PROBLEM
Accumulation of the greatest quantity of "props" ever assembled for a single picture necessitated the establishment of a special property room at Paramount studio for the Frank Lloyd production, "If I Were King," starring Ronald Colman. There were 25,000 fifteenth century items needed for the picture.

A homing pigeon, released in France on August 15, 1931, reached its home in Indo-China, 7200 miles away, just 24 days later.

Two More Features

Opening tomorrow at the Embassy will be two more fine feature attractions consisting of Jack Holt in "Making The Headlines" with Beverly Roberts and a great supporting cast. The second hit being Sally Blane and Lloyd Hughes in "Numbered Woman."

Gable Role Proves "Hot To Handle"

"Too Hot To Handle," current attraction at the Maryland Theatre, may be the title of the picture, but in reality Clark Gable's role in it was almost too hot to handle.

Gable's first mishap occurred during the first week of filming. A section of ruined Shanghai had been created on a back lot and during an air raid, while making a newsreel shot, Gable was to be catapulted into a mud puddle.

Gable followed orders of Jack Conway, the director, and fell in the mud, but he forgot to close his eyes. For two days his eyes pained him before the last particle was removed.

Through the second week of the picture, Gable and Myrna Loy worked continuously in fog in front of wind machines for night sequences. For this Gable received three days in bed with a light attack of influenza.

Up again, Gable was called upon to rescue Myrna Loy from a crashed airplane. Immediately after the "rescue," the plane was to catch fire with "controlled fire." Instead, before Gable and Miss Loy cleared the plane, the wind machines blew the "controlled fire" onto the fuselage and wings and the plane actually caught fire. Gable pulled Miss Loy from the cockpit only a moment before the flames swept the airplane. Both received a slight scorching without ill effects and smoke-filled lungs.

A few days later, Gable was on top of an ambulance making a newsreel shot. He pressed his nose too close to the exposed revolving motor and burned his nose. Later, he tore his thumb on a strand of barbed wire!

Here's the lineup of one "eleven" which has names known from coast to coast for high calibre pigskin reporting:

Paul Mickelson, New York; Charley Dunkley, Chicago; Whitney Martin, Kansas City; Fritz Howell, Columbus; Eddie Brietz, New York; Robert Myers, Los Angeles; Russ Newland, San Francisco; Kenneth Gregory, Atlanta; Gayle Talbot, New York; Earl Hilligan, Chicago; and Bill King, Boston.

Every Saturday, you'll find this all-star cast in the press boxes at the great gridirons of the country. And they are only part of the team. Their expert stories are augmented by those of a hundred other Associated Press correspondents who cover the football fields in every state of the union.

Together, this vast array of sports writing talent produce an average of 57,000 words every Saturday afternoon,—enough to fill 70 newspaper columns!

Yankees Will Not Weaken Three Time Champ

Baseball World Wondering Where Team Will Stop

Colonel Jake Ruppert to Draw From Wealth of "Farms"

REFUSES $125,000 FOR MARYLAND U SLUGGER

To Keep Keller-Hartnett Says He Will Wreck Cubs To Rebuild

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Joe McCarthy's all-victorious New York Yankees broke up for the year today as the baseball world wondered when and where they will stop in the mad rush that has swept everything before it.

The first club in history to win three world titles in succession and the parent organization of two clubs which met it the "Little World Series," the Yankees apparently have all it takes to make a one-club show out of big league baseball for years to come. Any talk of breaking up the team is hot air. Owner Jacob Ruppert is now out to strengthen, not weaken, the team that already has written baseball records.

Refuse $125,000 for Keller Reports from the vast club farm chain indicate the champions should be 25 per cent stronger next year. The farms are growing stars like weeds and several are expected to step into the club roster next year. One, Charlie Keller of Newark, is almost sure of a regular outfield berth, giving McCarthy a dream outfield. Though rival clubs have offered as high as $125,000 for Keller, the Yankees have rejected all bids.

"The National League," conspired Bucky Harris, manager of the Washington Senators, "should feel very happy. All its pennant winners has to do is to face those Yanks in one series a year. How about us?" In the American League we have to see 'em around all year."

Strangely enough, the Chicago Cubs didn't see the champions at their best during the four-game series sweep. The pitching and fielding was normal but the hitting was so far below Yankee par with a team average of only .274. Joe DiMaggio hit but .267. Lou Gehrig .286 and Tommy Henrich a mere .250.

Hero of the series, a record breaker at the gate for a four-game show that drew a gate of $851,166 from 200,633 cash customers, was Frank Crosetti. Though rookie Joe Gordon displayed some great heroics in his first series, Bill Dickey batted .400 and Red Ruffing pitched two winners. Frankie was the one-man thorn in the heart of the Cubs. His fielding ruined them in the first game, his homer off Dizzy Dean won the second, and in the fourth he ripped off a triple that sank the Cubs for good.

The Chicago hero was Joe Marty, also of the West Coast. Marty drove in all the Cub runs in the second and third games and wound up tied for second place among the all-time series batting average leaders with a .500 mark even though Ruffing stopped him yesterday.

In the player pool split, the Yankees got $5,815.28 each, the Cubs $4,674.87. The Yankees were as liberal with their cuts as with base hits, slicing their melon into 30¢ shares after giving $3,500 in cash gifts. The Cubs, who left their former manager, Charlie Grimm, out without a nickel, split their booty into 26 shares. Neither of the club-owners made more than expenses because they didn't get the big 5th, 6th and 7th games in which players do not share.

Rip Collins, first baseman and philosopher of the Cubs, summed up the whole 1938 series with: "Thank God none of us was hurt."

Hartnett Declares Cubs In For Drastic Shake-Up

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP)—The crestfallen Chicago Cubs returned from the World Series wars today to face a threat of a sweeping shake-up.

Manager "Gaby" Hartnett, disappointed by the team's sorry showing against the New York Yankees, confirmed reports that he contemplated a new blood transfusion in an effort to build the club's strength.

"Are you planning a shakeup from top to bottom?" reporters inquired. "Say yes," he replied in the forthright Hartnett fashion.

He also disclosed he would confer with owner P. K. Wrigley concerning moves to put "powerful men" in Cub uniforms next year.

Just one week ago some 300,000 citizens turned out to hail the Cubs when they brought the National League championship home from St. Louis. Today some 300 members of the old guard gathered at the La Salle Street station to greet the squad upon its return from the east.

Several named for sale "Don't worry," cried several of the faithful as they crowded about the players. "There'll be another."

Hartnett declined to name the men he would place on the block but he told correspondents on the train: "There'll be a clean sweep of the ball club. That includes outfielders, infielders and pitchers. I'm not

SOLACE IN HIS SORROW

Mrs. Nellie Hartnett kisses Gabby

Poor old Gabby Hartnett, manager of the Chicago Cubs, found solace in his sorrow after his Windy City crew blew four games to the Ruppert Rifles of Gotham in the World Series, when his mother, Mrs. Nellie Hartnett, bestowed a consoling kiss on the boy who to her is still "the greatest man in the world." Gabby admitted with Connie Mack of the Athletics that the current edition of the Yankees is the greatest baseball array of all time.

"Old Professor" Holds Class To Hear Grid Coaches Cry Blues

By PAUL MICKELSON

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Unaccustomed as he is to hanging out compliments for fear they'll return to roost in his burly whiskers, the Old Professor was in such a merry mood today he couldn't resist a few words of praise for his lads in the Monday morning class for football coaches.

After listening to aibis of ball players in the world series the professor was glad to get back where he could hear professional weepers.

Professor: "I give you credit. You guys can cry louder and weep harder than all the ball players—even the Cubs. But we must get on with our work. Hey! Who's passing cigars back there?"

Red Dawson, Tulane: Professor, I cannot tell a lie. A new cheer leader, scalling seven pounds, was born at my house. It's our first and I'm setting up smokes for the house.

Professor: Peases! I'll take a box of snuff instead of that cigar. And now will Sergeant-At-Arms Sutherland kindly remove William Van-bushed Slyker from the front bench. He hasn't won a game since—

Pittsburgh "Got Breaks" Bill Slyker, Evansville College: Hold it, Professor! My name today is William Victorious Slyker. Don't you read the papers? Don't you know my aces not only scored a point for the first time since 1936 but won a game? Professor, we licked Wabash, 27 to 0, Saturday. I wouldn't swap my bunch now for the whole Pittsburgh team. Hold me back!

Professor: Indeed, this to too much. Hurry up with that snuff. What's this business coming to?

Jimmy Kitts, Rice: Darned if I know. Our great ball club has been licked twice in a row by a total of four points.

Bernie Moore, LSU: Professor, Dawson and Slyker are no more proud of their kids than I. Our game against Rice was a great one. Our line was magnificent and Cotton Milner—Professor, he was great.

Professor: So far, we've had celebrations. Okay, doctor give it to us. Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh: We beat Duquesne but we got the breaks and turned them into advantage. I'm worried. We got to play Wisconsin and any team that can score 31 points against Iowa must have something.

Clipper Smith, Duquesne: No all-time great team won, because Pitt is great.

Professor: Now if Jock could only get more than one team.

Fiddled White, Purdue: Burned Bernie Bierman, Minnesota: We fiddled while Purdue burned us up that first half with a great center line. They outplayed us badly but we got the breaks and then hung on in the second half. I wouldn't have bet a nickel at half time that we'd score.

Mal Elward, Purdue: Minnesota's attack was powerhouse. I could use some of those backs. Anybody could.

Professor: I see where Tennessee got some revenge.

Bob Neyland, Tennessee: We waited two years and got it but until the closing minutes of the final quarter it looked like we were going to have to wait still longer for it.

Jack Meagher, Auburn: Looks like I'll have to call on the WPA for help in developing a scoring punch. At that, we might have got a tie except for some tough breaks.

Professor: Spoken like a Bierman, a Sutherland, a Jones.

Elmer Layden, Notre Dame: We beat Tech but professor never have I been so out-smarted in winning a football game. Tech played a smart game and we had a fight on our hands all the way.

Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech: mentioning any names but there'll be a different ball club on the north side."

The general feeling was that Wrigley, who laid out $185,000 for Dizzy Dean last year, would reopen his coffers this winter if Hartnett can uncover likely material in the baseball market.

Bruce Hi Soccer Team Meets Allegany Today

Allegany High School of Cumberland sends its soccer team to Westport today to test the mettle of the Allegany County Champions, Bruce High of the Tri-Towns town.

Play will get under way at 4 o'clock with Van Roby of Cumberland as the referee. Bruce is favored to beat the Campobello clan which lost 8-0 to Beall of Frostburg last Friday in the opening game of the round robin between the three county schools. The Westport team boasts victories over Oakland 2 to 0 and Grantsville 11 to 0.

Hornsby to Manage Baltimore Orioles

Rajah Who Served As Coach Last Season Will Get $10,000

(Advance) Baltimore, Oct. 10 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, the man who held almost every "most" or "highest" title in major league baseball signed on as manager of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League tonight.

John Ogden, general manager, in announcing the deal said there had been several weeks of dickering. Ogden declined to reveal the terms but it was reported Hornsby, at one time one of the highest paid players, will receive $10,000.

But even ten thousand is a "most" for Hornsby in the minor league. Travis Jackson of Jersey City has hitherto been considered top money man with a reported $9,000.

Hornsby, who generally has a racing form somewhere among his trinkets, replaces Bucky Crouse in one of the most horse race minded cities in the states.

The Rajah served for a time last season as coach and pinch swatter for the Orioles but talk of dissension spread like a tip on the fifth at Pimlico and he announced he was going home.

For the remainder of the season he worked with Chattanooga of the Southern Association.

Hornsby is now at Hot Springs, Ark., where he is arranging for the opening of the baseball school he conducts in the springtime.

Prep for Maryland

Keyser, W. Va., Oct. 10 -- The Potomac State Catamounts start preparing for their first home game

today with a much improved squad.

Word has been received that the University of Maryland will send a very strong team here next Sat-

morning that if the Catamounts played the kind of game that they did in Charleston the spectators

would not be disappointed.

The Catamounts made a big hit in Charleston. Many people who saw both games said the Morris Harvey better game than the West Virginia—W. L. game. The Los Angeles Bull Dogs, professional team, was staying at the same hotel as the Catamounts and they were strong in their praise, saying State deserved a tie.

The spirit of the squad has im-themselves next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in their first home game.

Lady Astor Denies Lindbergh Scorned
Soviet Air Force

making "slandorous and insolent anti-Soviet utterances" before guests of Lady Astor, Virginia-born member of the British House of Commons.

It referred to a report by "The Week" agency and charged that "Lindbergh acted in conformity with instructions of British reactionaries to prove the weakness of Soviet aviation" and thus provide "British Prime Minister" Chamberlain with an argument in favor of capitulation in Munich in the Czechoslovak problem.

The letter as circulated by Tass said in part:
"x x x Recently Lindbergh again visited the Soviet Union. It should be noted that nobody invited him and he was allowed to come only upon request of the Americans. Taking use of the permission to arrive, Lindbergh visited the festivities held Aviation Day and now upon the return to London made use of the fact of his stay in the U.S.S.R. for slanderous and insolent anti-Soviet utterances which were served for Lady Astor's guests. It appears Lindbergh declared in London that Germany possesses such powerful aviation, which is able to defeat the air fleets of England, France, the U.S.S.R. and Czechoslovakia.

"On what grounds did he base his statement? Allah alone knows. x x x
Second Statement Severe
"The second statement outstripped the first. He declared that in the course of his stay in Moscow he was offered the post of chief of Soviet civil aviation x x x
"Lindbergh as chief of aviation! Such absurd lies can only make us flatter laugh. x x x
"A further quite unbridled falsehood followed. 'The Soviet air fleet,' Lindbergh declared, 'is left without leadership and is in a chaotic state.' It would be unnecessary to refute such an obvious lie. x x x
"The same 'The Week' agency which reported Lindbergh's state-would not normally ask for any Americans.

During the whole stay in Moscow, Lindbergh spent most of his time with Soviet airmen, occasionally saw Americans, but consistently refused to talk for publication.

Judge Protests Lack
Of Police Co-operation

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 10.—(AP)—After calling Sheriff Tom O'Hara and State Police Corporal T. K. Long into court, Circuit Judge Minter Wilson told them today there is a lack of "proper cooperation" among law enforcement officers in Monongalia county.

The judge, speaking of the state police, asserted Corporal Long was "hired and fired from Charleston" and the "people have a right to know who is governing them, but I don't want to be governed from any capital." Wilson said he believed the sheriff should lead county law enforcement agencies and "should dominate the state police."

Jury Looks To Safety of "Little Fellow"

A new deal for the "little fellow" was recommended by the Grand Jury of the October term of Circuit Court.

Persons of short stature might be dangerously injured by bumping into the horizontal-bar type valve handles on the fire hydrants in the Court House, the jury's report said. Installation of valves with circular handles was urged.

Franklin-powered Cub SHATTERS ALL ENDURANCE RECORDS for light planes! Pilots praise performance of Aircooled Motors Corp., makers of this Franklin "50" engine, selected Blue Sunoco because their tests proved:

...it gave more R.P.M.s.. more power and greater economy than even the premium priced gasolines tested!"

This novel method of refueling was used in the record-breaking flight of 104 hrs. and 6 min. The old record was 63 hrs. and 54 min. The plane was piloted by Merrill Phoenix and Harold F. Allen. Exclusive of aviators and fuel, the ship weighed 453 lbs.

Prior to this flight at Syracuse, N. Y., many different fuels were tested by Aircooled Motors Corporation. They found that this engine, which combines some features of both aviation and automobile engines, performed better with Blue Sunoco than with any other gasoline tested. Reports showed that even the premium priced fuels tested did not equal Blue Sunoco's performance.

These facts should convince you that Blue Sunoco deserves a test in your car against any motor fuel, at any price... Get your trial tankful today.

Celanese Re-Hires 48 Stay-In Strikers; Accord "Complete"

Union Declares Its Opposition To Such Strikes

Everyone Agrees On Plan To End Eight-Month Spinners' Dispute

The Celanese Corp. of America and the C.I.O. textile workers union announced last night the complete settlement of a labor dispute arising from the stay-in strike in the spinning department Feb. 7.

The statement committed the union to disapproval of all stay-in strikes, but did not give the number of workers to be re-hired.

Union sources said the total number re-hired was forty-eight, including forty-four persons in whom the union was interested and four men in whom the union was not interested. More than seventy spinners were dismissed by the management after the wild cat strike.

Thirteen Refused
Unionists said thirteen men whom the union wanted taken back were not re-hired.

The settlement was announced following its ratification by striking spinners in a meeting at Textile Hall on North Mechanic street. Unionists said the vote was fifty to one for ratification.

The formal announcement of the end of the long drawn out dispute was brief. It said:

"The Celanese Corp. of America and the Celanese Workers Industrial Union, Local 1874, announce the settlement of a labor dispute arising out of a stay-in strike which occurred in the spinning department of the Celanese plant Feb. 7, 1938.

"In settling all matters arising in this dispute the company and the union re-affirmed their complete agreement against stay-in strikes."

Must Share Work
There was no demonstration as the spinners left the hall after voting. A number of them have had WPA jobs since their dismissal, union officials said.

Reliable sources said there has been no recent increase in production schedules in the spinning department, and none is expected. It is understood that the February strikers will have to share the work with spinners now employed, and that some strikers and some non-strikers will be furloughed along strict seniority lines.

The strikers are expected to return to work within the next two weeks.

"Deserters" Deserted
It was pointed out that some of the strikers who were not re-hired were not supported by the union because they were accused of deserting the C.I.O. The company declined all comment on the number of persons involved in the settlement.

The settlement was generally regarded as clearing the way for negotiation of other problems.

The February stay-in was termed a protest against labor-saving improvements in production methods. The strike was immediately branded as unauthorized by the union.

Circuit Court To Try Five Civil Cases Today

Five civil cases are scheduled for trial today in Circuit Court. The petit jury reported yesterday as the term opened, but was excused until this morning when four civil appeal cases set for trial were announced settled out of court.

On the docket for today are the following cases: Charles A. Jewell vs. Mayor and City Council of Cumberland; First National Bank of Midland vs. Nellie McMahon; Gordon Elliott vs. Lee P. Green; George L. House vs. Jennings George K. House; and Thomas G. Dicken vs. Dr. T. Hunter Bailey.

First Lady Observes Her Fifty-Fourth Birthday

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will have two birthday cakes tomorrow when she becomes 54 years of age.

The National Women's Press Club will give her a birthday luncheon, with cake and candles. In the evening, there will be the usual Roosevelt family celebration, although she and the President are the only members of the family in the White House.

There'll be a cake with 21 candles, because the Roosevelts never count the years beyond that age.

Horse Destroyed When La-Vale Stable Burns

A horse was suffocated when the stable in which it was quartered was razed by fire at 3:15 yesterday afternoon at the home of Frank Bock on B street, La Vale.

Sparks from a forge at which Bock had been doing some blacksmithing were fanned by the wind and carried to the stable. He was absent at the time.

The La Vale fire company saved adjacent buildings and hay stacks. There was no insurance.

TO SHAKE ALLEGANY COUNTY'S HAND

Gov. Harry W. Nice

Governor Nice and Running Mates To Be Tendered Rousing Rally Here

Governor Harry W. Nice and his caravan of Republican state candidates will whirl through Allegany county Friday on their strenuous "shake hands with all the voters" campaign.

Complete plans announced last night by George Henderson, State Central Committee chairman, call for thirteen scheduled stops in Allegany county and a rousing mass meeting at the State Armory here Friday night.

A delegation of local Republicans, bolstered by a brass band and a sound truck, will meet Governor Nice at Flintstone at 10 a. m., soon after the caravan crosses the county line.

Band To Head Caravan
The Old German Band of Frostburg will precede the caravan and draw the voters out at every stop.

Except for the Armory mass meeting, there will be few speeches but lots of handshakes, Chairman Henderson said.

After a fifteen minute stop in Flintstone, the caravan will speed to the B. and O. shops in South Cumberland, arriving there just in time to catch the shophmen at their lunch hour.

At noon the party will be served luncheon at the Grace M. E. Church Hall. The public will be welcome to lunch with the candidates.

Itinerary For County
The campaigners will hurry on to meet voters in Cresaptown from 1:20 to 1:30 p. m.; in McCoolle from 1:30 to 2:05; Westernport from 2:20 to 2:30; Barton from 2:45 to 2:55; Lonaconing from 3:10 to 3:30; Midland from 3:45 to 3:55; Shaft from 4:10 to 4:20; Frostburg from 4:40 to 5; Eckhart from 5:10 to 5:20; and Mt. Savage from 5:40 to 5:50.

They will return to Cumberland for dinner and a rest before the mass meeting, which opens at 8 p. m. All state candidates will speak, including Gov. Nice, candidate for re-election; Oscar Leser, for the United States Senate; Leo Weinberg for attorney-general; Dr. W. G. Jack for comptroller; and E. Ray Jones, of Oakland, for clerk of the Court of Appeals.

Mr. Henderson will preside at the mass meeting. The only local speakers will be A. Charles Stewart, of Frostburg, nominee for United States representative from the Sixth District, and Judge William A. Huster, candidate for judge of the Circuit court of the Fourth judicial circuit. State central committeemen will be on the platform.

The delegation to welcome Gov. Nice to Allegany county and to join his caravan will include members of the State Central Committee, all local Republican candidates, and as many party members as can turn out. Motorcycle police will head the procession.

To Remain Here Overnight
Gov. Nice will stay in Cumberland Friday night and open his Garrett county campaign Saturday at 9:30 a. m. in Grantsville. Since he plans to visit Washington county Monday, it is believed he may spend Sunday here, but without any formal program.

The whirlwind tour Friday will be his only scheduled visit to Allegany county during the campaign, Mr. Henderson said. Every day except Sunday from now until election will see the Republicans pushing their strenuous campaign in a different county of the Free State.

Allegany county Republicans will put their campaign in high gear tonight at 8 o'clock when all primary candidates, whether successful or not, will meet with the State Central Committee at party headquarters. The campaign will be mapped out in detail, and the arrangements for Governor Nice's visit perfected.

Fire Prevention Week Is Observed At La Vale

The LaVale Fire Company gave a public demonstration of its new fog nozzle last evening with a large crowd attending. The nozzle extinguished a bonfire soaked with oil and gasoline within a few seconds.

R. J. Snyder, fire chief, distributed fire prevention literature to school children yesterday. The last of the week he will direct a fire drill at the LaVale school.

Rev. E. A. Wilcher Named to Succeed Rev. Allan Gillis

Emmanuel Methodist Church Pastor Transferred to Aberdeen

Ministerial assignments, embracing changes in several Southern Methodist churches in the Cumberland area, were announced yesterday as the 154-year-old Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, concluded its annual meeting at Harrisonburg, Va.

The Rev. Allan Gillis, pastor of Emmanuel church here, was transferred to Aberdeen, and the Rev. E. A. Wilcher was named to succeed him here and at Flintstone. Transferred to Keyser, W. Va., the Rev. J. H. Brown will be succeeded at Trinity by the Rev. S. R. Neel, formerly of Keyser. The Rev. Fred B. Wyand was returned to Central church, South George street.

Darst Transferred
Calvary church at Ridgeley, W. Va., loses Rev. Lewis W. Darst, whose successor will be the Rev. C. J. Clark. The Rev. Mr. Darst was transferred to the Elliston-Shawville (Va.) pastorate in the Roanoke district.

The Rev. Charles Brady will go from Frostburg to the Oden-ton-Jesus supply, and the Rev. Virgil Gillum will take care of Frostburg in connection with Listonburg, Va.

Other changes in pastoral assignments affecting many churches in three states marked the session, which may be the last for the "mother conference," oldest in the conference, according to Dr. Nolan B. Harmon, Jr., of Roanoke, secretary of the boundaries commission, who said that an effort would be made to hold the conference together but expressed doubt that it could be accomplished under plans for realignment after the union of the three branches of Methodism at Kansas City next April.

Trucker Burned As Fire Prevention Week Opens

National fire prevention week opened with a burst of flame in Cumberland yesterday afternoon when a 34-year-old truck driver attempted to prime the carburetor on a stalled car at North Centre and North Mechanic streets.

The truck driver, John Gibson, 722 North Mechanic street, was burned on the right hand and right leg by flaming gasoline. He was treated at Allegany hospital and returned home last night. Firemen gave first aid.

No formal recognition of national fire prevention week is planned here. Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka said, "because fire prevention goes on 365 days of the year."

Chief Hoenicka reminded citizens that since April city garbage trucks have been hauling rubbish away whenever it is set out. During September the city hauled away 193 truck loads.

"That's much better than cleaning out rubbish once a year on fire prevention week," said the chief.

Deaths of the Day

Oca Reed
Oca Reed of Silver Springs, son of the late Q. H. Reed, of Cumberland, died October 7 at Mt. Alta Hospital, Washington, D. C. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Helen Moore, of Paris, France, and three brothers, John of New York City; Estel of Cumberland, and Daley of Pittsburgh, Pa.

He was a stepson of Mrs. Mollie Reed of Cumberland.

Address Feature of K. of C. Observance

A discussion of communism by the Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, over the local radio station at 5:45 p. m. will be one of the features of the observance of Columbus Day here tomorrow under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

A dance at the K. of C. hall will climax the celebration.

Memories

Forty Years Ago
Republicans of the twelfth senatorial district met in convention at Keyser and nominated F. M. Reynolds, of Keyser, for the state Senate. T. G. Pownall was chairman of the convention. Speeches were made by Robert Stallings, of Davis, U. S. G. Pitzer, of Martinsburg, and the nominee.

William Hixon, of Cumberland, and Miss Luzzetta Hansrote, of Doe Guiley Tunnel, W. Va., were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. G. H. Riley, of Willow Brook. Charles Wilson was best man and Miss Lillie Riley was bridesmaid.

Charles Edwin Widener, 45, died at his home, corner Greene and Lee streets, of pneumonia, the result of exposure and exhaustion while laying off lots on the Huttonsville extension of the West Virginia Central railroad. Mr. Widener was a well known surveyor and was twice city engineer of Cumberland. He was a son of ex-Judge John B. Widener and was survived by his widow, who was Miss Nancy Shuck, and one child, Arnett Murray Widener, four years old, also two sisters, Miss Kate A. Widener and Mrs. John Snyder.

At the annual meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., officers elected for the year were: Mrs. C. F. Kenneweg, Mrs. R. D. Henderson, Mrs. A. Hunter Boyd, Miss Jennie Wilson, Miss Mary Gardner and Mrs. C. Smith, Jr.

Twila, two-year-old daughter of Charles C. Willison, city editor of the Evening Times, accidentally stepped into a bucket of water and painfully scalded her foot.

Weather In Nearby States

Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia—Fair, slightly warmer today; Wednesday partly cloudy and warmer followed by occasional rain in afternoon or at night.

Everybody HAPPY

The "grand old guard" of the county court house believes in fairy princesses, now that the primary elections are over, and there's nothing much ahead but the general elections, and with the court house guard that's no headache.

Fact is, the Republican incumbents are so cheerful about the "outlook of the general elections that they have waxed musical and poetic at the same time, and this is the theme song they are fingering on their "thingamajigs" (which is a stringed instrument re-ferred for such songs as have to do with occasions when the "goose hangs high").

Here it is to the tune of "Heigh-Ho," in fact it is "Heigh-Ho." Heigh-Ho, Heigh-Ho!

Here's something that we know, The Democrats Won't remove our hats In a month or so, Heigh-Ho! Heigh-Ho, we know,

When the ballots start to flow, For four years more The wolf at the door Can blow and blow, Heigh-Ho! Heigh-Ho, And so

There's no more cause for woe. There just ain't no fight We're sitting tight! Heigh-Ho, Heigh-Ho!

Motorists at Baltimore and Mechanic streets for a while yesterday afternoon may have thought they were seeing around corners. The traffic lights, arm on one of the poles at the intersection was struck by a large van as it rounded into Baltimore street going west and pushed arm, lights and fixtures generally askew. Part way into Baltimore street, to be exact. Attention, soon called to the condition, soon remedied the situation.

Charles F. Heller, former City Commissioner, is prizeing a bottle of beer which he hopes will some day have a historical significance. Harry Rodenhauer presented it to him after losing an election bet. The bet was a case of beer to a bottle of beer with a red ribbon round it that O'Connor would beat Jackson by 20,000 in Baltimore City.

"When O'Connor is elected, I'm going to take that bottle of beer and christen the State House with it," said Mr. Heller. The omission of the "if" from this assertion was Charlie's own idea.

New Court Record Indexing in 1939

System Will Cost $2,000 --Books in Present Series Crowded

Efficient indexing of Allegany county records for the next 150 or 200 years was assured yesterday when Robert H. Jackson, clerk of the Circuit Court, announced plans for installation of a second series of indexes to deeds, mortgages, judgments and miscellaneous records at a cost of approximately $2,000.

Announcement of the proposed installation, to be effective January 1, 1939, followed a conference between Mr. Jackson and a committee of the Cumberland Bar association headed by T. L. Richards. The committee, named about two months ago, recommended the new indexes be installed.

A total of eighty-three index books will eventually comprise the new series, but for the present, only twenty-eight will be installed. Plans for the change, necessitated by present series, which refer to records crowding of index books in the dating back to 1791, call for immediate installation of nine indexes to deeds, nine to mortgages, eight to judgments and two to miscellaneous records, including one for vendors and one for vendees.

It has not been decided whether to install new indexes to chancery records.

Investiture Colored Scouts Draws Crowd

Four hundred persons attended the investiture ceremony of Tekakwitha Girl Scout troop 15 in the cafeteria of S. S. Peter and Pauls Church, Sunday afternoon, setting a record for an event of this kind in Cumberland. Tekakwitha troop is the second colored girls' troop to be organized in the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Those invested were Grace Smith, Ruth Rhodesworth, Louise Pace, Anna Rhodes, Mary Smith, Helen Meade, Madelyn Mann and Jane Mann.

Members of the Girl Scout Council, Alumnae Association of Ursuline Academy, Catholic Daughters, and Metropolitan M. E. Church, and others attended.

The Tekakwitha troop is sponsored by Ursuline Academy Alumnae Association, which also sponsors troop 9 and troop 19.

Parade Pictures Feature Legion Meeting Tonight

Motion pictures of the mammoth parade and other scenes of the recent national Legion convention at San Francisco will highlight the meeting of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, at 8 o'clock tonight in Legion hall, according to an announcement by Robert C. Bowser, commander.

More than 100 sons of Legionnaires saw the picture, "Sons of the Legion," at the Strand yesterday as guests of the management. A parade by the junior drum and bugle corps preceded the showing.

Kiwanis Club Entertains At Ladies' Night Party

The Kiwanis Club entertained its wives, sweethearts and guests last evening at the Cumberland Club with a dinner followed by an unusually attractive program of speaking and music.

About 150 members and guests were present, including Irvine Diener, governor of the Capitol district of Kiwanis International, and Mrs. Diener, of Alexandria, Va.

President Herbert Platt presided and, after the usual group-singing, introduced Governor Diener, who brought the greetings of the other clubs in the district and felicitations of the district organization to the members.

Clement M. Lucas, popular local barytone, rendered a number of pleasing selections, accompanied at the piano by Joseph Williams, of the Cumberland club.

Harold W. Smith, past-president, then introduced the speaker of the evening, Billy B. Van, who is widely known for his varied activities, including many years on the stage and as a public speaker, business executive and recently for his interest in local civic government in New England.

Van proved to be a highly entertaining and human speaker, moving his audience rapidly from the serious to the humorous, with his talk on "The Irresponsibility of the irresponsibilities." He described the trials and duties of the old-timers—and especially the conservative Yankees of New England—in adapting themselves to the changed social, economic and political conditions of the present.

The speaker drew a graphic picture of the rehabilitation of out-moded industries in New England and painted an eye-witness description for his audience of the havoc wrought by the recent hurricane and of the courage and resourcefulness of the inhabitants of the stricken area in overcoming the conditions resulting from the unprecedented storm.

Each lady present received a corsage and all in all the evening proved to be one of the most enjoyable Ladies' Nights yet staged by the Kiwanis Club.

Meeting and Party

$1,000 and $500 Asked In Suits Docketed

Recovery of property and $1,000 damages are asked in a suit in ejectment entered in Circuit Court by the Allegany Real Estate Company against William Anderson. The plaintiff charges that the defendant entered upon a parcel of land and dwelling at Carlos August 1 and retains possession. William A. Gunter is attorney for the plaintiff.

Charging that Norma E. Wentz and Mary R. Lanham seized and unjustly retain under a distraint order property to the value of $1,000, Charles E. Hanel has docketed suit in Circuit Court for damages of $500. Hanel is represented by Charles G. Watson.

Ordinance To Ban Noise Is Tabled Again

Supervisor Wants More for City Grounds

City Council yesterday rest a month before action on ordinance to ban industry and noises interfering with sleep.

William M. Somerville, representing three tire-plants, supplied the ordinance demanded by citizens.

Ordinance Broad
Somerville said the ordinance was very broad and the city slow before enacting such legislation. At the suggestion of Commissioner Harry Irvine, the ordinance was tabled one month to give the city time to improve its grounds to improve the city's appearance and to eliminate nuisances.

Somerville contended ordinance does not define sleep or rest and leaves open for any disgruntled complain. The proposal prohibits manufacture of said ordinance would be better.

Stating that there are no noises at night, Somerville said rubber bottoms should be garbage cans.

Mayor Thomas W. Koon Somerville's argument was far-fetched. He pointed out the city has received many complaints about retreading at night and that something should be done.

Some Use Mute
Hesket said some people use mute noise by using rubber pads.

The ordinance provides for a $100 fine and 30 to 90 days in jail.
